Unity Talks Wrecked On Rock Of Prestige

JINNAH BOOSTS STATUS OF MUSLIM LEAGUE

Subhas Upholds Congress Honour & Refuses To Sur- render To Communalism

The protracted unity parleys between the Congress President and the President of the Muslim League have nearly broken down on Mr. Jinnah's STATUS No. 1.

"The Muslim League cannot treat or negotiate with the Congress on the question of Hindu-Muslim settlement except on the basis that the Muslim League is the authoritative and representative organisation of the Mussalmans of India" is Mr. Jinnah's major premise.

CONGRESS PRESIDENT'S REPLY

Reiterating the position of the Congress as one of readiness to co-operate with the Muslim League to achieve Hindu-Muslim Unity, Subhas Bose unequivocally states that the Congress is in no sense a communal organisation and cannot possibly consider itself or function, as if it represented one community also.

Replying to Jinnah's claim for Muslim plenipotentiary rights for the League, Subhas is positive that the Congress is bound to consult other Muslim organisations which have co-operated with it in the past.

BOSE-JINNAH CORRESPONDENCE

CALCUTTA, August 16.
The following is the full text of the correspondence between Mr. Subhas Chandra Bose, the Congress President and Mr. M. A. Jinnah, the President of the All-India Muslim League, which Mr. Bose released to the press this evening:

Jinnah's Formula

The following is the formula suggested by Mr. Jinnah on 13-5-38:

1. The All-India Muslim League as the authoritative and representative organisation of the Indian Muslims, and the Congress as the authoritative and representative organisation of the solid body of Hindu opinion have hereby agreed to the following terms by way of a pact between the two major communities, as a settlement of the Hindu-Muslim question.

2. The Congress and the All-India Muslim League, as the authoritative and representative organisation of the Mussalmans of India, have hereby agreed to the following terms of a Hindu-Muslim settlement by way of a pact.

True Role Of Congress

The following note was handed over by the Congress President to Mr. Jinnah on 14-5-38.

CONFIDENTIAL

In the course of the talks between the Congress President and Mr. Jinnah, President of the All-India Muslim League, Mr. Jinnah suggested that any agreement that might be arrived at should be based on a clear understanding of the position of the Congress and of the Muslim League. He proposed that the conversations should proceed on the following lines:

"The All-India Muslim League, as the authoritative and representative organisation of the Indian Muslims, and the Congress, as the authoritative and representative organisation of the solid body of Hindu opinion, have hereby agreed to the following terms by way of

BANK UNABLE TO PAY ITS DEBTS

Travancore National's Appeal Dismissed With Costs

TRIVANDRUM, Aug. 16.
Justices G. Parameswaran Pillai and K. Sankarasubba Iyer of the Travancore Chief Court delivered judgment to-day in the appeal preferred by the Travancore National and Quilon Bank Ltd., on the order of the District Judge, Quilon directing the winding up of the Bank.

The Judges held that under Clauses (5) and (6) of Section 166 of the Companies Regulation, the petitioner had established the inability of the Bank to pay its debts and that it was just and equitable to wind up the Bank. The order of the Court was confirmed and the appeal was dismissed with costs.—United Press.

a pact between the two major communities, and as a settlement of the Hindu-Muslim question."

After further consideration, a somewhat different wording was suggested by him as follows:

"The Congress, and the All-India Muslim League, as the authoritative and representative organisation of the Mussalmans of India, have hereby agreed to the following terms of a Hindu-Muslim settlement by way of a pact."

This second statement, though shorter, apparently embodies the same idea which is given in the first—that is, that the Congress should represent the Hindus and

Karachi 'S. O. S.' To Sardar & Azad

Allabux Ministry's New Tactics Create Intriguing Situations

KARACHI, August 16.
As the political situation in Sind is becoming intriguing again, Dr. Choithram Gidwani, President of the Sind Provincial Congress Committee and Prof. Ghansham Jethanand, Leader of the Congress Party in the Sind Legislative Assembly, have dropped the idea of proceeding to Bombay.

They have already wired to Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, Chairman and Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, Member of the All-India Congress Parliamentary Sub-Committee, to proceed to Karachi to give a correct lead to the Congress Party in the Sind Assembly 'vis-a-vis' the Allabux Ministry.

MINISTERS' DEMAND.

Enquiries made by the "United Press" indicate that Dr. Gidwani and Prof. Ghansham saw the members of the Sind Cabinet to obtain their signatures to the compromise formula. The Ministers, it is understood, instead of appending their signatures straightway raised fresh issues. They demanded written assurances from the Congress Party that the Congress would accept whatever orders the Ministry would issue after placing the assessment proposals before the Assembly, that Congress would not go into opposition and never be a party to the vote of no-confidence against the Allabux Ministry.

"FOOLING US."

This gave rise to misgivings in the minds of the Congress leaders. In this connection Mr. R. K. Sidhwa, Secretary of the Congress Party in the Sind Legislative Assembly, declared: "Now I am convinced that the Ministry is fooling us and putting us off to gain time and consolidate the position. The Congress shall have nothing to do with it."

The opinion in Congress circles here is veering round the view that the Allabux Ministry deserves no sympathy from the Congress. A meeting of the Karachi District Congress Committee held last night also arrived at the same conclusion.

WRITTEN ASSURANCE.

A meeting of the Assembly Congress Party was convened on Saturday last to consider the fresh proposal of the Sind Ministry regarding written assurances. On the other hand, Mr. G. M. Syed, a Muslim leader, offered to join the Congress Party with ten followers to form a Coalition Ministry. His proposal will be placed before the members of the Parliamentary Sub-Committee.—United Press.

Armed Force Leads To Anarchy

America Out To Rescue Civilisation & Individual Liberty

WASHINGTON, August 16.

Mr. Cordell Hull in a nationwide broadcast, propounded the clear-cut issue facing the world as the result of recent developments, namely: Is the future of the world to be determined by universal reliance on armed force, frequent aggression, autarchy, impoverishment and international anarchy, or will peace, morality, justice based on economic wellbeing, security and progress prevail?

Referring to the developments in Science, Mr. Hull said that it will soon be impossible for some nations to choose the way of force and for others to choose the way of reason. "All will have to go in the same direction."

Intensive trade barriers between Nations must be reduced or the pressure of nations to gain access to the needed raw materials by conquest of additional territory and the mailed fist, will become intensified.

The disintegration of the structure of world order proceeded with staggering rapidity and threatened the very foundations of civilisation.

INDIVIDUAL LIBERTY AT STAKE

"When destruction and impoverishment are inflicted on other areas, we cannot escape impairment of our own economic wellbeing. When freedom is destroyed by increasing arms elsewhere, our ideals of individual liberty are jeopardised; hence it is necessary that the United States should become increasingly resolute for effective efforts to co-operate with other peoples—within the range of our traditional policies of non-entanglement—and support the only programme which will turn this lawlessness and place the world firmly on the only road leading to enduring peace and security.—Reuter.

CONGRESS WORKING COMMITTEE

CALCUTTA, August 16.
The "United Press" understands that the next meeting of the Congress Working Committee will be held in Bombay during the first week of September next when Mahatma Gandhi is expected to be present there.

No date for the proposed Industries Ministers' Conference has been fixed yet. It is expected that it will be held in Bombay during the session of the Working Committee.

As at present arranged, the Congress President, Mr. Subhas Chandra Bose, leaves for Bombay on August 26 next so as to be in time for according a send-off to the Congress Medical Unit for China on August 29.—United Press.

When Constitution Sub-Committee Meets

CALCUTTA, Aug. 16.
The "United Press" understands that the meeting of the Constitution Sub-Committee of the Congress will be held in Bombay during the session of the Congress Working Committee when it is believed the present Congress constitution will be revised in the light of Mahatma Gandhi's suggestions.—United Press.

Relief For Tenants And Indebted Masses

GOVT. OUT TO SPEED UP TENANCY BILL

Scheme To Repurchase Confis- cated Property To Be Placed Before Bombay Assembly

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT).

POONA, August 16.

The fourth session of the Bombay Legislative Assembly, which commences deliberations to-day (Wednesday), promises to be a prolonged one, and is expected to go through several important measures connected with the peasantry and the debt-ridden masses of the Province.

IN ALL PROBABILITY THE PRESENT SESSION WILL BE THE LAST ONE TO BE HELD IN POONA, AS IT IS ALREADY A FORE-GONE CONCLUSION THAT THE GOVERNMENT WILL NO MORE SHIFT TO POONA.

No More Poona Exodus

"Poona Exodus" has been engaging the attention of the present Government from last year. Now it transpires that a resolution may be moved at an early date at the Congress Party meeting suggesting the abandonment of Poona Exodus for five months every year and making Bombay the permanent headquarters of the Government.

In case the Party approves the resolution, it will be moved in the Assembly either in this session or at the next session in Bombay by the Government.

IT APPEARS THAT THE CONGRESS GOVERNMENT WANT THE CONGRESS PARTY AND THEN THE ASSEMBLY TO DECIDE THE QUESTION, INSTEAD OF TAKING RESPONSIBILITY ON THEMSELVES.

As reported already, provisions of the Tenancy Bill from the main subject of discussion among the M. L. A.s, though the Bill has not so far been placed on the agenda. It is, however, gathered that the first reading of the Bill will be moved during the latter half of September. It is the intention of the Government to get the measure through all stages during the present session itself. If however, there is a demand for reference of the measure to the Select Committee it is possible that it will be referred to the Select Committee, and the last two readings will be taken up for consideration at the December session.

LANDLORDS BUSY CANVASSING.
Landlords are busy mobilising opposition against the measure, inside the Assembly. Representatives of Khots and landlords are expected to put obstacles in the way of the early passage of the measure and may suggest circulation of the Bill for public opinion, in case their attempt to get the Government agree to institute exhaustive enquiry before bringing the measure in the Assembly fails.

NO GIVING IN TO DILATORY MOVE.

It is stated that the Government published the Bill as a press note even before it was gazetted, with a view to give it the widest possible publicity and get criticism on the same, and hence, there is absolutely no possibility of the Government agreeing to any circulatory move or to institute exhaustive enquiry into the land tenure systems in different parts of the province.

Those who feel that the measure is a very moderate one are trying their best to convince the Government of the absolute necessity of so changing the measure, that a large percentage of the peasantry may derive benefit. Many point out that the Madras Tenancy Bill is more radical than the Bombay measure. Leftists and Labour representatives in the House are expected to move amendments to remove 100 acres' limitation from the measure.

Many are anxious to reduce this limit to a minimum, namely either 25 acres or 50 acres.

DEPUTATION TO PREMIER.

In this connection, it may be noted that a deputation consisting of Congressmen from Ratnagiri District waited on Hon. Mr. B. G. MADRAS, August 16.—It is understood that at the last meeting of the Cabinet, the question of the Andhra province was considered and it was decided that Government should send further despatches to the Secretary answering the objections raised by the latter.

Kher, Prime Minister, and Hon. Mr. Morarji Desai, Revenue Minister, this afternoon to urge the necessity of the removal of 100 acres' limitation from the Tenancy Bill.

It is understood that the Ministers in reply to deputations stated that the measure had been passed by the Congress Party and that the measure now would come before the Assembly, and that nothing could be done now.

DEBT CONCILIATION.

It might be recalled that during the discussion of the small-holders' Bill in Bombay session, the Revenue Minister informed the House, that as far as possible, the Debt Conciliation Bill would be brought before the present session of the assembly. Enquiries show that the final draft of the Bill is not yet ready, but efforts are being made to get the bill ready before the middle of the next month, in which case, it will come up for discussion in the current session.

FOR RESTORATION OF CON- FISCATED LANDS.

Another important measure which may come up for consideration before the Assembly will be the bill which will authorise the Government to repurchase the lands confiscated during the Civil Disobedience movement according to a certain settled plan.

It is difficult to state at present when the measure would be ready, though it is stated that the outline of the same has already been discussed.

Some of the important members of the Assembly will be absent on the opening day. Mr. K. M. Munshi, Home Minister will not be attending as his son who has been suffering from typhoid for a long time is understood have had a third relapse. Mrs. Lilavati Munshi will not be attending for the same reason. Mr. S. V. Parulekar who is one of the pillars of the opposition is not expected to attend till the third week of September.

The Least Scratch will let them in!

Why do surgeons take such elaborate precautions in the operating theatre? Because they know that septic germs lurk everywhere. You cannot see them; they are so small that a pin point can carry a vast army. And you never know of their invasion until inflammation and festering start. To leave healing to chance is to run into danger. Remember the sign and the slogan—SAFETY

FIRST. Put them into practice by keeping a tin of Cuticura Ointment handy and using it promptly on all Cuts, Scratches and Abrasions, however trifling. Cuticura Ointment kills septic germs and repels them. No germ can get into a cut once Cuticura is applied. No germ can live in contact with Cuticura. It gives you the protection of the best antiseptic, PLUS great healing power.

A touch of Cuticura Keeps Germs Out!

(From Our Correspondent.)
THANA, Aug. 13. Mr. Gajanan Krishna Dabke who died on the August 3rd at Wardha was a promising young man. He had studied the shorthand system, and had he lived for a few years more he would have brought out an independent Marathi shorthand system. He was only 25 years old when he died. He attended All-India Conference of Stenographers at Wardha and demonstrated his system in the said conference and thereafter he was requested by the Hindi Prachar Samiti to join its shorthand committee for working out Hindi shorthand System and for devising improvements in the type-writing machine. To that end, he went to Wardha in January where he was seized with cholera on the 2nd of August and expired in the Wardha Hospital on the following day.

AROUND THE COURTS

Bombay, Tuesday.
Overcome with grief at his failure to get a job during the last eight months and unable to support a family of five, Vitthal Ganoo Salvi is stated to have swallowed opium last evening. The family, which consisted of mother, wife and his two younger brothers, had been out in the evening. On return home, they saw Salvi lying in an unconscious state. Salvi was removed to J. J. Hospital, where he has been detained. Salvi was remanded on bail at the Girgaon Police Court today.

Servant To Hang

Sentence of death was passed by Mr. Justice Divatia at the High Court Sessions on the Jury finding Imamuddin Fakruddin guilty of murder. The accused, who was employed as a servant in a milk-dealer's shop, decoyed an eight-year-old girl to a lonely place and, after relieving her of her ornaments, strangled her to death. The accused then buried the dead body in a ditch in a stable at Dharavi.

Alleged Imitation Of Tata Soaps

The case in which Mr. Pirojshah Ardeshir Narielwala, Manager of the Tata Oil Mills Ltd., charged Mr. A. K. Porebunderwala, Proprietor of Mehta Soap Works, under sections 6 and 7 of the Indian Merchandise Marks Act, was marked compounded by the Presidency Magistrate, Third Court as the parties arrived at a settlement. The accused undertook not to stamp on soaps of his manufacture the figure "51" or any other figure or figures in infringement of the Trade Mark "501" of the Tata Oil Mills Ltd. He also undertook not to stamp on his soaps the figure "701" or any other figure or figures in infringement of the trade mark "501" of the Tata Oil Mills Ltd. As the parties came to terms, the Magistrate marked the case "compounded" and acquitted the accused.

Alleged Corporation Defalcations

Defalcations, said to be unprecedented in the history of the Bombay Municipal Corporation are the subject matter of an inquiry by the Municipal officers and the Bombay police. A clerk employed in the K. E. M. Hospital has been arrested in this connection and he is now in police custody. The amount alleged to be misappropriated by the accused runs to the tune of nearly thirty thousand rupees. The misappropriated amount, it is said, is in regard to the fees collected from the Gordhandas Medical College. A systematic defalcation has been going on since 1931. It is strange that the defalcation had not been found out till now although every year the accounts are carefully examined and checked by expert auditors. It will be remembered that the defalcations came to light only recently when the Dean of the K. E. M. Hospital informed the authorities that one of the clerks had not properly accounted for the fees collected from the College. The Chief Auditor, the Dean and a special staff then carefully went through the accounts and discovered that defalcations had been going on since 1931. Inquiries made by a representative of the "Bombay Chronicle" go to show that the Charity Box of the Hospital used to be generally opened by a clerk and that there used to be nobody else when the box was opened.

Daughter's Bad Cold Vanishes Like a Charm!

One Application of Remarkable New Ointment Brings Amazing Relief by Next Morning

"My youngest daughter was in the grip of a heavy cold, and had great difficulty in breathing. One application of Vicks VapoRub on her chest and throat made her feel more comfortable at once, and brought immense relief next morning. The results were truly marvellous." D.H.W., Kailash, Purnea Dist., E.B.Ry.

Don't let your children's colds hang on and on. Often a simple cold will lead to serious complications. End colds promptly—with Vicks VapoRub, the modern vaporizing ointment. There is nothing to swallow, nothing that might upset small stomachs as too much "dosing" often does. All you do is rub this pleasant vaporizing ointment on the throat and chest at bedtime.

Acts Instantly—Two Ways at Once

Almost before you finish rubbing, there is a comfortable tingle on the little one's chest as VapoRub begins to act direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time, warmed by the body, VapoRub releases medicated vapours which are breathed in for hours, 18 times a minute, direct to the irritated air-passages of the nose, throat, and chest.

This combined poultice and vapour action makes the child feel better right away as it starts to soothe irritation, loosen phlegm, relieve coughing, and break up congestion. With the breathing easier, the little patient soon drops off to restful sleep. And long after sleep comes, VapoRub goes on working. By morning, almost always, the worst of the cold is over. Even grown-ups' colds yield quickly to VapoRub's powerful double action.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

Unless 2 pints of bile juice flow from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and our food decays unhealthily in our 25 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. Laxatives and mouth washes only help a little. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills. They get those 2 pints of bile flowing freely and then you feel on the "up and up." Rovers Cup Football

Easy Victory For Lincolns South Kanara Eliminated By 4 Goals

BOMBAY, Aug. 16. The Lincolnshire Regiment from Nasirabad, experienced little difficulty in eliminating the South Kanara Association XI, who created a favourable impression by beating the 6th Field Brigade, Mhow, earlier in the tournament, from the Rovers Cup by 4 clear goals, at the Cooperage, on Tuesday evening.

The Winners were a better side in all departments of the game and fully deserved their victory.

The military forwards established their superiority right from the start and having the exchanges and the play well in hand, opened their account in the 10th minute from the start, Allen, their centre-forward, hitting the upright but Shetty, in attempting to clear, had crossed the goal-line with the ball in his hands, and the referee ordered a goal for the Lincolns. The Nasirabad Regiment kept their hold on the game and continuing to play in their opponent's territory kept their defenders in difficulties.

FINE SOLO RUN.

A quick solo run by D. Shetty, down the right flank, took the ball to the Lincoln's end, where Puthran, South Kanara's inside-left failed to connect it from a near range. Towards the latter part of the initial period the civilians bucked up courage, but lack of understanding between their forwards, put to naught, many of their promising movements.

A well-combined raid, by the Lincoln's forwards culminated in their second goal. Turner, their inside-left, finding the net from about 25 yards out. This was in the 25th minute. Three minutes later Puthran was responsible for wasting another scoring chance and the Military team crossed over with a lead of 2 goals.

The Indian side showed to advantage on resumption, though for a while, following which the Lincolns had things their own way and Turner put them 1 more up in the 10th minute. At the other end, immediately afterwards, Puthran took a good shot, but the ball hit the crossbar and went over it. There was little interest left in the match, at this stage.

The Lincolns attacking and South Kanara defending desperately, continued to be the order of play, for the remaining time, till hardly a minute before the end when Hickin, the Regiment's inside-right, completed his side's tally by obtaining the fourth goal.

RESULT: 4 Goals.

RS. 12 LAKHS DEBENTURE LOAN FOR CRICKET CLUB OF INDIA

Sir Homi Mody Explains Details Of Scheme And Announces Donations From Viceroy & Princes

Details of the scheme to float a debenture loan of 12 lakhs of rupees were explained by Sir Homi P. Mody to the members of the Cricket Club of India at a meeting held at the Club House on Tuesday evening.

Appealing for generous support to the proposal, Sir Homi Mody quoted the words of the late Sir Nowroji Saklatvala, who at a meeting of General body of the club on April 24, 1938 said:—

"I am convinced that it is the most anxious concern of not only the members of this Club but also of all lovers of sport throughout India that this magnificent Club and great institution must be saved at all costs. To allow it to close down would be a tragedy and if that ever happens and I need hardly say we shall do our very best to see it shall never happen, the stock of India's prestige throughout the sporting world will receive a serious set back."

At the outset Sir Homi P. Mody eulogised the services rendered by Sir Nowroji, to the world of sport in general and to the Club in particular. The passing away of Sir Nowroji was a great loss to the various sporting institutions of India, as it was to commercial and industrial institutions.

A committee had been appointed with Sir Homi P. Mehta, as chairman, to devise ways and means to perpetuate the memory of the late Sir Nowroji. He hoped that other sporting clubs and institutions would co-operate with this committee in the matter.

CLUB'S FINANCES. Coming to the financial position of the club Sir Homi P. Mody stated that it was a show which had cost more than twenty lakhs of rupees. The payments, so far made, had come to Rs. 7,85,000. In this connection Sir Homi Mody paid a glowing tribute to the Secretary, Mr. A. Jashdanwala for the devotion and ability with which he had been carrying on his duties and it was largely due to him that the income of the Club had increased and liabilities reduced. The liabilities outstanding roughly amounted to Rs. 12,00,000.

DEBENTURE SCHEME.

To meet this liability, it was proposed to float a debenture scheme. His Excellency the Viceroy had sent a telegram conveying his best wishes for the success of the stadium together with a donation of Rs. 100. His Highness the Jam Saheb of Nawanagar had pledged the support of himself and of his state. The Maharawal of Dungarpur had agreed to subscribe to the debentures. The Maharaja of Patiala, to whom the Club owed nearly Rs. 2,25,000 had not pressed his claim for payment which was due on June First. Through the good offices of Nawab Sir Liaquat Ali Khan, it had been agreed to convert this into debentures. The Maharaja had also agreed to donate Rs. 50,000 towards the cost of building the Patiala Pavilion.

Several other creditors had also adopted a helpful attitude by not pressing their claims. Particular mention was made of Mr. Shapurji Pallonji, a creditor who had agreed to co-operate with the debenture issue. The Islam Gymkhana had agreed to take debentures worth Rs. 5,000.

The debenture would be redeemable over a period of 12 years. Certain safeguards would be provided by way of representation to the debenture holders on the managing committee, restrictions on the outlay of capital expenditure and building up a reserve for redemption from the surplus revenue.

No guarantees would be given, but Sir Homi Mody thought that from the income realised through the various sources, the debenture holders could be assured of their five per cent interest every year and they would hold securities to the extent of Rs. 20,45,000, represented by the buildings, furniture and enterprise of the club. He also thought that the normal expansion of the club would make it possible to redeem the debenture in the stipulated time. At worst they would have to raise another small debenture at the end of the period. He appealed for generous subscriptions.

He also announced that Messrs. Tata and Sons had agreed to subscribe Rs. 50,000 and Sir Homi P. Mehta agreed to subscribe Rs. 5,000.

20-FT. LONG SAW FISH AT CHOWPATTY

Hundreds Throng Place To See Sight: A Rarity For Bombay

BOMBAY, Tuesday. Two fishermen, who cast their nets in the sea, off Government House last night, had a surprise this morning when they found that the net had entrapped a huge fish twenty feet in length and weighing several maunds.

The fish was dragged by a boat near the Chowpatty foreshore where it was finally landed. Hundreds of men and women particularly Gujarati and Maratha ladies, thronged at Chowpatty to see the fish.

The police had a hard job to keep the onlookers being crushed as all those who came to see were tumbling over one another in their anxiety to see the fish. The owners however had kept the carcass covered and it was only by their courtesy that the public were able to see the fish which was not only huge in length but also in weight.

Mr. S. H. Prater, Curator of Prince of Wales Museum, who came on the scene identified the fish as "Saw Fish" which is a rarity in the Arabian Sea, and hardly to be found near Bombay.

TAKE CHARGE OF HUBLI MUNICIPALITY

(From Our Correspondent).

HUBLI, August 15. As already announced, the Conference of local institutions was held last evening at Karnatak Press compound, Dr. Hardikar presiding.

Fifty-eight institutions represented at the Conference sent delegates numbering over 200. A large number of visitors also gathered, who were separately accommodated. Shivashankarappa Devpur, Chairman of the Reception Committee and Dr. Hardikar, President, delivered written speeches.

Mr. Dundur, Pleader, moved the main resolution respectfully requesting the Government to supersede Hubli Municipality and take over its charge immediately.

About ten persons representing different institutions, addressed the Conference, supporting the resolution. Among those who supported, there were three Muslim delegates, one Harijan delegate and one lady delegate representing Bhagini Mandal.

Although it was repeatedly declared by the President that the Conference was free, and open to all delegates, none came forth to oppose the resolution, which was formally put to vote and carried unanimously.

The second resolution requested Dr. Hardikar to forward the resolution to the Government and invested him with full power and authority to do every thing necessary regarding the resolution. After two and a half hours' deliberations, the Conference came to a close.

The Report gives a good account of the progress made during the year in the matter of education and sports for the children. The School missions started by the Society in 1937, has been recognised by the Schools Committee of the Bombay Municipality. The President appealed to the parents of the children of the school to render all possible help. Messrs. N. N. Aiyer, C. K. Narayanan, and N. V. Sarma have been elected President, Secretary and Treasurer respectively.

MR. NEMIDAS T. SHAH'S CANDIDATURE FOR E. C. ASSOCIATION'S DIRECTORATE

Mr. Nemidas Tarachand Shah, president of the Cotton Brokers' Staff Union, who is standing as a candidate for election as a Director of the East India Cotton Association in the course of his appeal to the voters says:—
I have been rendering active service in the national cause. In the Forward cotton market you are well aware of the services I have been doing. The sympathy and hearty co-operation I have been receiving from all the active brokers in the cotton market have been a source of great inspiration and impetus to me, and I am really very much grateful to all of them for that. My this bold venture of standing as a candidate for directorship is simply the outcome of your deep love and inspiration.

The present cotton prices have fallen to such a low level that they deserve immediate attention. Due to continuous low prices of commodities, our agriculturists have been reduced to condition verging on starvation. In a country like ours, totally dependent on agriculture, such a state of affairs spells ruin and disaster, and it is highly imperative that necessary measures with a view to improve the situation be speedily taken by the Government and the institutions concerned. If successful in the election, it is my ardent desire to move the E.I.C. Association to do all it can in this great matter. I may assure you that in all my actions, the interest of the cotton trade and the welfare of the agriculturists and our motherland shall always reign supreme with me.

"Gopal Krishna" And Punjab Hindus
(From Dharam Rakshak Sangh), DELHI, (By Mail).

The Delhi Dharam Rakshak Sangha has deputed Dewan Shambhu Nath Chopra to visit Bombay, Calcutta and other Film producing centres in India for inducing film producers to refrain from preparing anti-religious and unhistorical films. The question arose at the exhibition of utterly irreligious and unhistorical self-invented scenes in the Prabhat's Gopal Krishna. Great sensation has been created in and out of Delhi on this account. Several protests were recorded from the Punjab and other Northern India cities and are still pouring in. The Sangha first appointed a Sub-Committee and it is on the recommendation of this Sub-Committee that Mr. Chopra is now deputed to take some effective measures. Hindus were horrified in Northern India to learn from this film that Maharrattas believe in the slaughtering of cows during the days of Lord Krishna and the Lord himself agreed to a herd of animals being presented to demon Kansa. Still more was the new theory of describing Radha as a Mother to the Lord. The film Gopal Krishna was unanimously declared as an objectionable film by the Sub-Committee and about a dozen objections have been raised against it.

TALK OF THE SUBURBS

(BY A SUBURBAN MAN)

The 21st report of the Salsette Catholic Co-operative Credit Society has been published. The society has 1,120 members on the register at present with 3,542 shares of the face value of Rs. 25 each.

The committee of the Society met 40 times to transact business in the course of the year. The financial position of the society is very sound and the net profit for the year amounts to Rs. 1,588-2-5 which after deducting the loss of Rs. 53-9-3 brought forward from last year, leaves Rs. 1,534-3-9 for distribution. A sum of Rs. 800 is to be taken to the Reserve Fund. The deposit liability of the society has been reduced further by Rs. 6,500 bringing the total liability to Rs. 39,026. The Society will hold its twenty-first Annual General Meeting on Sunday August 28, at St. Andrew's Girls School Hall, Bandra, at 10-30 A.M.

Light On Sex Problems

Col. Jelal Shah Condemns 'Conspiracy Of Silence'

The necessity to give up the hush-hush policy in matters of sex while dealing with the young and to familiarise them, step by step, with the various aspects of sexual problem, in a correct and tactful manner, was emphasized by Col. Jelal Shah in the course of a lecture on "Sex Education," before a gathering of ladies, at the Town Hall on Tuesday.

The meeting was held under the auspices of Bombay Presidency Women's Council (Health Sub-Committee) and was presided over by Mrs. J. R. Doctor.

It was time, the lecturer said, that the conspiracy of silence on sexual matters, generally was ended and the veil lifted and facts faced.

The sexual urge or impulse in the growing child should not be regarded as a morbid factor and was by no means a sign or indication of a diseased or perverse mind. The sexual urge was essentially a physiological factor and was absolutely a sign of a healthy moral mind and should be considered as such by those responsible for the education and training of the young.

It was commonly noticed by medical practitioners that any disastrous or harmful consequences were mostly due to a lack of sufficient sex knowledge which should be imparted to the young girls and boys, after they attain puberty, by qualified and right type of teachers. The speaker himself had noticed that even educated young men betrayed colossal ignorance in such matters.

If, therefore, this part of education was neglected, Col. Shah, observed, and a broad-minded and common sense attitude was not taken up, the youth of the country could not be reasonably be blamed, if they fell victims to a type of conduct or action in the several spheres from which they would, in all probability have been saved with adequate healthy knowledge on the subject.

It was true, the speaker added, that at present numerous books on the subject of sex were available for the reader, both young and old. Even some books intended for the children and the young were not really suitable to them. In any case, no book or literature could replace adequate, personal imparting of such knowledge to the children or the young, by qualified and specially selected teachers.

DOCTORS' IGNORANCE.

The speaker deplored that even in medical practice, one often came across cases where lack of sex knowledge was mainly responsible for consequent conditions on which they subsequently sought advice. It was no exaggeration to say that in many instances, a doctor would realise that with adequate sex education he might have averted serious catastrophe among newly married couples.

As far as the speaker was aware, there was neither any chair for sexology in any university in this country nor any hospital in India to impart sex knowledge. In the speaker's opinion such a state of affairs was not surprising, when one realised that sex and sexual problem had been a closed chapter in this country. Training of medical students in this respect was also sadly neglected.

Concluding, he hoped that public opinion would assert itself by dint of agitation for adequate handling of the sexual problems by the authorities concerned, not only in schools but also in colleges and other institutions.

ENTERPRISE FOR DECCANI WOMEN

Miss Anandkar's Scheme

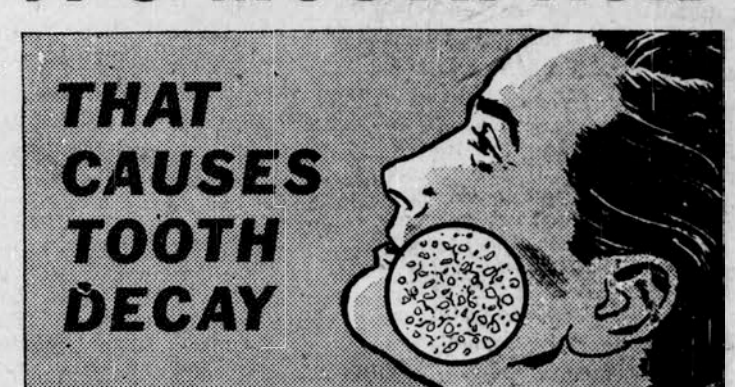

BOMBAY, Tuesday.
With a view to fostering the idea of dignity of shop labour amongst Deccani women and also in furtherance of the women's co-operative movement, the floatation of an enterprise with a capital of Rs. 50,000, divided into shares of Rs. 10 each, is in contemplation. Only Deccani women will be entitled to participate in it. The contemplated enterprise consists of the opening of a stores in Girgaum for the sale of various types of articles, and will be entirely managed and staffed by Deccani women. There will, however, be no restrictions as to the clientele.

This was disclosed in the course of an interview with Miss Piroi Anandkar, a social worker and the Principal of Students' Literary and Scientific Education Society's Girls' High School. She was animated with the idea, she said, during her stay of two years in London, from where she returned 3 years ago. She had observed similar enterprises run successfully entirely by women.

The formation of a Children's Co-operative Club is another measure in contemplation by Miss Anandkar. The Municipal Schools Committee is being approached for the free grant of a site for this purpose.

WEAPON OF REPRESSION

The Bill to penalise every kind of propaganda against recruitment in the Army, now before the Central Assembly, is a most dangerous measure and deserves to be stoutly resisted at every stage. It makes every attempt to dissuade persons from entering the defence forces an offence punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years or with fine or with both. It is to come into force at once in the Punjab and may be extended to any other province at any time, not by the Provincial but by the Central Government. It revives some of the clauses of the Emergency Legislation of 1932 which was repealed in 1935 as being quite unnecessary. Relevant provisions in the Penal Code and the Indian Army Act have been found enough to give due protection to the defence forces against tampering with discipline therein and against intimidation of intending recruits. But in every free country when a citizen is free to enter or not to enter the forces, other citizens are and ought to be free to persuade him not to enter in certain circumstances. Such freedom is particularly essential in a country like India where the Army authorities are non-Indian and where the military policy is not seldom dictated by imperialist interests even against its own national interests or its wishes. Every Dominion is free to join or not to join an imperialist war and, therefore, free to carry on propaganda against recruitment for an unwanted war. India needs such freedom more than any other country in the interest of her own peace as also of the peace of the world. The Bill in question is only a stage in the process of dragging India into British imperialist wars whether she likes or not. For that very reason it must be resisted at every stage without any compromise.

True Remedy

Mr Ogilvie who moved the Bill in the Assembly, cut a very sorry figure. Quoting extracts from various public speeches he sought to make out that a vigorous propaganda against recruitment was afoot in the Punjab. But he hardly impressed anybody; for in the first place he could not say who had made the speeches he quoted and in what context, and, secondly, it was irrelevant to point out that there was some sort of anti-recruitment propaganda, the real issue being whether or not the public should have the right to carry on such propaganda. When the President gave his ruling that isolated extracts from speeches should not be read out without a mention of the speaker's name and the context of the speeches, Mr Ogilvie collapsed and it was significant he could not name the speakers or mention the circumstances in which they made the speeches. He also said that 90 per cent of the peasants in the Punjab supported the Bill but he could not answer the pertinent question why then the Punjab Government had not brought forward such a Bill. He knows full well that no provincial Government could undertake such a Bill and long survive it. The Home Member sought to justify the Bill on the ground that 115 different meetings were held at which anti-recruitment speeches were delivered. He also added that in some districts there was a falling off in recruitment. But he gave no indication of the extent of this reduction. Assuming there is some reduction, cannot "the mighty Government of India," as Mr. N. M. Joshi asked, "put up 1,500 speakers to counteract the effect of 155 Socialist speakers?" Mr. Joshi, also rightly emphasized that the real remedy lay in improving conditions of service and in doing away with the distinction of "martial" and "non-martial" races. Mr. Abdul Quayyum re-inforced this argument when he pointed out that they followed a wrong policy of Indianisation which involved racial segregation.

War Against Congress

The Opposition speakers, Congressmen in particular, had no difficulty in exposing the danger of the Bill to the public. Mr. Satyamurti pointed out that the measure would stifle even beneficial activities like pacifism and that it was meant to be used as a weapon against the Congress denouncing British imperialist wars. Mr. Gadgil made out that the Bill was itself a preparation for an imperialist war. It was not, he said, a mere isolated attempt but closely related to what the British Government of India had been doing during the last eighteen months and what the Government of India had been doing in the shape of mechanisation. It was only "a trailer to move serious measures providing for more serious curtailment of civil liberties." Few could have any doubt about the danger of the Bill. It is amazing, therefore, that Maulana Zafar Ali supported its principle and stated that it should be passed with amendments that the House might make but should go to the provinces thereafter and they should enforce its provisions whenever they considered it necessary. He did not want, he said, "the irresponsible Central Government to have this new weapon of repression in their hands." But why help this irresponsible Government to forge any new weapon of repression at all? We do not know what compromises the Muslim League may accept. The Congress, against which, as Mr. Akhil Chandra Dutt pointed out, the Bill is a declaration of war, should accept none.

Realists Alarmed

Europe and even Herr Hitler's abject friend realistic Britain have failed to suppress their deep anxiety over the so-called manoeuvres that are now in progress in Germany. That anxiety is, if possible, growing deeper. And rightly so. The London "Daily Telegraph," a faithful supporter of Mr. Chamberlain, has admirably summarised the position when it says "...it is not normal to warn conscripts that they will not be released on the due date, to forbid all men under 65 to leave the country, to order all the officers to report for service, to put doctors and nurses under restriction regarding movements and to instruct various classes of civilians to register with the police for special duties." These facts attach "sinister significance to the manoeuvres," for, as this friend and supporter of Mr. Chamberlain's realism itself says, the Germans "must be aware that they have in the past provided grounds for uneasiness."

The answer to these manoeuvres is what has been urged by a French Radical paper, namely, an assurance to Herr Hitler that France and Britain "stand firm" if the necessity is forced upon them by Germany. This is the right answer, the only answer and the answer which is most urgently needed. Wobbling and hesitation may prove disastrous—as they formerly have proved on the admission of the "Daily Telegraph" itself. But this is precisely the attitude that British realists are again adopting in spite of the avowed knowledge that the situation is fairly critical. Where a categorical stand is of the essence of urgency London is almost cringing. British realists know, we say, how Germans "have in the past provided grounds for uneasiness." But what is it that they are doing? They are resorting to apologetic, at best persuasive, walls. History shows that this technique has invariably resulted in encouraging international outrages by Herr Hitler and others like him. It is significant that while British realists talk of the lesson of German activities, they do not profit by it.

IS TOKIO'S SOVIET GENERAL A HOAX?

Lyuchekov Said To Be Suffering From Conscience!

From "The Chronicle" Reporting From Reporter, K. A. Abbas.

VANCOEVER, CANADA, Aug. 1. (By Air Mail.)

While in Tokyo a few days ago I was naturally interested in the sensational story of General Lyuchekov, Far-Eastern Chief of the OGPU, who is said to have escaped from the Stalin "terror" and found refuge in Japan. A few days before my arrival in Japan the Japanese authorities had arranged a meeting between the Soviet General and the foreign press representatives in Tokyo. At this interview, after which no others were allowed, the ex-Chief of the OGPU had to say much against the Stalin regime, commented strongly on the Soviet "machinations" against Japan, gave a detailed account of the Soviet Government's military strength and did not forget to add a few words of praise for Japan and the Japanese people. As it was impossible for me to obtain an interview with the General I did the next best thing and sought information from those foreign journalists who were present at the interview. The following facts emerge from my enquiries and create a strong suspicion about the actual identity of the alleged General.

General Lyuchekov is said to have been arrested on the Manchukuo border somewhere early in June but was produced for his interview with the Press in Tokyo over a month afterwards. Why? What was he doing in the meantime? Is it possible for an important Soviet official to escape from his country and the world to remain unaware of it for four or five weeks?

Russian Journalist Not Invited

All accredited foreign journalists in Tokyo were invited by the Japanese authorities with one exception, the representative of the Soviet news agency, Tass. When I learnt this I called at the residence of the Tass representative and asked him as to how it was that he was not invited to this interview. He said that was what had surprised him, too, particularly as before the interview he had personally approached the authorities and asked them if he could come along with the other journalists. But they stoutly refused, offering the rather transparent excuse that there wouldn't be enough space in the room! Why was it that the one man in Tokyo who could have identified Lyuchekov and talked to him in his own language not allowed to see him? Even if the Soviet General is not a hoax, the Japanese authorities have made the whole affair look mighty suspicious.

(Incidentally, on coming out of the residence of the Tass Agency man I immediately saw that I was being followed by a plain clothes detective in a car. Presently he got down from the car, came to me and asked some questions as to who I was and why I had visited that place. He certainly looked disappointed when I told him that within two hours I was boarding a steamer for America!)

From another foreign journalist who was present at the Lyuchekov interview I learnt that, as he talked, again and again the Soviet General seemed to suffer from a conscience, dramatically exclaiming, "Oh, I do not know if I have betrayed my cause and my country!" According to the journalist, the gestures were too studied and dramatic to be true.

It is interesting to find that the Japanese papers (printed in English) are not yet sure about the spelling of the name of their precious General. Three different versions are current—Lyuchekov, Lushkov and Rishkov!

Whether Lyuchekov is a hoax or not, the Japanese press is making the maximum capital out of him, holding him up as an example of Stalin's "red terror." The General has certainly appeared at the right moment to be useful in the strong anti-Soviet propaganda campaign being carried on in Japan. But he has hitherto kept silent about his future and, meanwhile, he is under veritable detention of the Japanese police.

Japan's Difficulties

It is evident in Japan, however, that the Japanese authorities are not keen on starting a war with Russia right now when they are hard pressed in China. The latent view that they have taken of the latest Manchukuo border "incident" is significant in this respect. There is no doubt that Japan is finding herself in increasing financial difficulties as a result of the unexpected prolongation of the hostilities in China. Both the import and export trade are practically at a stand-still. The World Exposition and the Olympics have had to be postponed as an economy measure and the Government has decided to

AYURVEDIC & UNANI BILL

Some Constructive Suggestions

(By Dr. S. K. Vaidya).

It is reported in the Press that the Ayurvedic and the Unani Medical Bill is coming before the Select Committee for detailed consideration of its various sections and clauses. It is further suggested that there is likely to be some controversy, and this forecast appears to be based on reliable inspired inside information. With a view to offer some help in the solution of the points at issue, I make the following suggestions to the legislators for due consideration.

Wardha Resolution

The last Wardha meeting of the Working Committee of the Congress is reported to have passed a resolution recording its "opinion that innumerable persons in towns and villages in India are receiving the benefit of treatment under other systems like Ayurved, Unani and Homoeopathy, and they should receive recognition and encouragement from Congress Governments. The Committee was further of opinion that while measures may be adopted to ensure the efficiency of such practitioners, nothing should be done to penalise any particular system."

It is clear from the resolution that the various systems mentioned above and by implication any other systems which are beneficial to the people, should receive encouragement, subject to the condition that their practitioners should be efficient. It is further laid down that no particular system should be penalised, in other words, in addition to Ayurved and Unani, there should be some method of giving recognition to Homoeopathy and other similar systems, e.g., Chromopathy, Electrochemistry and the like.

Principles Of Bill

The Ministry holds certain definite principles, as is clear from the provisions in the Bill, viz:—

(1) Demand for a controlling Board to see that proper education is imparted and infringement of the provisions is punished, while recognition is given by the State to the qualified practitioners.

tioners in future. This is intended to ensure efficiency and to give status and encouragement, and to that extent no exception can be taken to the machinery implementing the policy. But this may result temporarily in dislocating service in the villages and also to the poorer classes in small towns to some extent, and it would not be violating the principles underlying the Bill, if some provision is made to make good this defect.

Home Remedies

I would submit the following suggestions for very careful consideration by the legislators:—

A—(1) Under Section, 33, a definite provision should be made by a schedule if possible that the Bill will be applied in the first place to large cities and large selected townships only.

(2) That any further extension of the application to other areas will not be made unless an opportunity was given to (a) the Board to give its considered view and (b) to the legislature also to give its guidance.

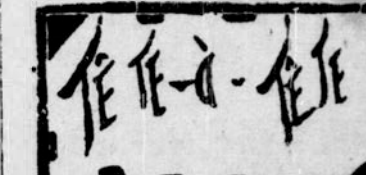

B—(1) It should be laid down that the provisions of the Bill shall not apply to persons who do not pose to be or practise as Vaid or Hakims but who merely serve out or supply "home-remedies" provided they are non-poisonous and harmless, such as Sudarshan Choorna, Hingushtak Choorna, Chyavan-Prashavleha, or "Jeevan", Seetopaladi Choorna, etc. among Ayurvedic preparations and similar non-poisonous Kashita-Aushadhes, or medicinal preparations of vegetable origin, which are not poisonous. Of course such persons will not have any licence to administer, arsenic, aconite, nux-vomica and similar poisonous drugs. This provision is suggested with a view to keep up the existing medical services of the poor people in the villages, and the suggestion is more than justified, in the light of existing practice in the case of allopaths and other patent medicinal preparations. By way of instances, I shall mention only a few to illustrate my point:—ague mixture, (anybody's) quinine tablets (any make (caffiaspirin purgative pills santal (mildy). Even Easton's syrup containing nux vomica is allowed to be sold, and numerous similar preparations. If a chemist can casually advise and sell a whole bottle of any medicine for home treatment, I think it would not be fair to prevent another person to sell under his own advice a few pills or a little powder. Such persons may be issued a licence of vendors of non-poisonous home remedies, and they will be subject to inspection by the Board's inspectors.

Claims Of Homoeopathy

(c) Homoeopathy is a definite system of treatment and the method of diagnosis and treatment are quite different. Pathology as understood by allopaths does not come in consideration. The homoeopath is taught first to create a composite mental image of any disease, from the totality of symptoms and treat it by a drug that by experimentation on healthy human beings is known to cause the disease-like group of symptoms, to such an exactness, that its image can be superimposed practically in all the major details on the disease-symptom-image. It will thus be clear that the suggestion that because a man is an allopath or a vaidya or a hakim, he is fitted to practise homoeopathy, is a fallacy. I am not concerned here to say whether homoeopathy is sound in its scientific outlook or not. And further it must be admitted that no one has a right or is qualified to offer an opinion on a subject of which he has not made a thorough study. But on a superficial examination it is clear that it is quite a different school of thought, more different than wireless telegraphy and television are from ordinary wire-telegraph.

Further the remedies are given in minute doses and in those dilutions they are harmless or non-poisonous and, therefore, I feel that some provision should be made that its practice may not be confined only to allopaths or (Continued on Page 11, Col. 2).

In the Central Assembly, Sardar Sant Singh asked why, if the Punjab Ministry wanted the Army Bill, sponsored by Mr. Ogilvie, it did not introduce it in the Punjab Assembly.

The answer is that such questions are, more or less, irrelevant in a joint-family system.

"The Muslim League organisation in the United Provinces shows a marked leftist tendency."—Anglo-India.

Heaven help leftism.

—MR. JINNAH FOR EGYPT?—Headline.

The answer is obviously in the negative.

But he will send a message to the World Muslim Conference that a mission will be despatched to Palestine after the Muslim League has thoroughly organised itself.

Dr. Khare is deeply pained. "It has been," he states, "brought to my notice that during my absence from Nagpur a number of meetings were held to criticise the decision of the Working Committee and that at such meetings some speakers used intemperate language and denounced the Congress."

What a pity, Dr. Khare did not have it brought to his notice that at many of the meetings in Poona, Bombay, etc., during his absence some speakers—Drs. Ambedkar, Moonje, etc.—used intemperate language and denounced the Congress. Otherwise we are perfectly sure that he would have protested then and there.

En? Yes, apparently that is so. But it is quite possible that while very much there physically he was spiritually absent.

European appeasement, we are once more assured by London, is "the keynote of the British Government's policy."

According to the Japanese War Office Japanese forces in the Chang-ku-feng area have "voluntarily" withdrawn further away.

We do feel like smiling. By the way, let us hope they will soon withdraw from China—voluntarily.

In an air battle on the Ebro Front the rebels claim to have shot down 13 republican planes, while the republicans claim to have shot down 18 rebel planes. Which obviously means that the rebels lost at least 5 planes more than the republicans. But it doesn't matter. Signor Mussolini will immediately make up the loss twice over.

Talking of war losses the Japanese casualties in the Border hostilities are announced by Tokyo to be 158 killed and 740 wounded. On the other hand Moscow estimates these Japanese casualties at 600 killed and 2,500 wounded.

Here is something for the Militarists of Japan to make a "causous belli" of. But luckily for themselves they have had their bubble burst by the Soviet.

The Bangalore City Municipality has resolved to boycott Japanese goods and has expressed horror and indignation at the bombing of open towns and villages by the Japs.

Can one hope that members of Bombay Corporation have not missed this news?

"Well?"

"Mother called father a stupid ass."

"But why are you crying?"

FRANKLY SPEAKING

"HUMANITARIAN WORK"

"The humanitarian work," says Reuter, "of facilitating the exchange of prisoners in Spain is expected to be greatly extended by the appointment of a Commission of three which will shortly establish its headquarters at Toulouse and maintain contact with both sides in Spain." This is in reference to a British Commission under Sir Philip Chetwode which has at last been accepted by the two parties after months of negotiations—although the Republicans had agreed to it long ago. The work is undeniably humanitarian. But much of the admiration for it is lost in the context of British inability, or shall we say deliberate refusal, to check the perpetration of inhuman outrages, outrages that continue with the same frequency and defiant barbarism. These outrages expose the "humanitarian work" to some contemptuous ridicule because it emphasises the cowardice and unhumanitarianism underlying the general policy of realism. By the way, it is noteworthy that every "humanitarian" proposal is welcomed as promptly by the Republicans as its acceptance is delayed by the rebels.

LANGUAGES IN LEGISLATURES.

In reply to a question whether a member of a provincial legislature who knew English could speak in an Indian language the Madras Speaker held that members could use any Indian language if they felt that they could not give free and full expression to their ideas in English even if they knew it and occasionally spoke in it. This is a correct and sensible view and has been given effect to in every province under a Congress Government. Many who know something of English and may have made some speeches in it with much preparation are unable to express themselves fully therein when there is no time for preparation. It is gross injustice to impose English upon them. A difficulty arises in some bilingual provinces like Bombay and Madras where speech in one of the provincial languages may be unintelligible to many whose mother-tongue may be different. Thus a speech in Gujarati may not be intelligible to members coming from Maharashtra and Karnatak. But the right remedy is not to impose English on all. It is better far to have linguistic provinces as early as possible, and in any case it is highly desirable for public workers to acquire a working knowledge of two or three languages other than their mother-tongue, Hindustani being invariably one of these.

HARIJANS AND HOTELS.

The hotel-owners of Poona who complained to Premier Kher about the various difficulties in admitting Harijans to their hotels unduly exaggerated their difficulties. Mr. Kher rightly pointed out to them that if the hotel-owners themselves had the will to solve the problem they could easily find the way out, as was done in an orthodox city like Ahmedabad. At the same time he did well to disapprove of mass entry by Harijans by way of demonstrations. However, once the Harijans know for certain that there is to be no objection to their entry into hotels, there will be no need for any demonstrations. To bring the Government circular into full force as early as possible it is desirable for reformers to boycott those hotels that still venture to defy or circumvent the circular.

Higher Education In Danger

CHANDAVARKAR ON NEW EDUCATIONAL POLICY

H.E. Sir Roger Lumley, Governor of Bombay, presided for the first time as Chancellor, over the Bombay University Convocation, on Tuesday and conferred degrees on a number of new graduates.

A procession of the Chancellor, Vice-Chancellor and Fellows entered the University Hall at 5-30 p.m. The Chancellor and the Vice-Chancellor having taken their seats on the dais, supplications were made by the Deans of various Faculties to admit the new 2,047 graduates, out of whom there were 166 ladies.

This being done, the Chancellor presented medals to the successful graduates. Mr. V.N. Chandavarkar, the Vice-Chancellor, addressing the new graduates said:—

"My final words of advice to all of you is: 'Never cease to be students.'"

When I had the honour of addressing the Convocation of 1934, I spoke on the growth and development of this University, on some of its present activities, and on the lines of its progress in the near future. Though hardly four years have passed since then much water has flowed down the Ganges. All over the country speeches are being made and schemes are being evolved some of which involve a radical reconstruction of the scheme of education in this country. In short reconstruction which involves the destruction of the existing scheme of education, rather than reform, has become the watchword of many politicians and reformers of the day. Most of the new Provincial Governments are busy preparing schemes to overhaul the existing system of primary and secondary education, and the Government of one Province in which there are five Universities, has appointed a Committee to go into the question of University education.

NOTE OF WARNING

I shall not in this address deal with the question of primary education or the Wardha scheme, which, I now find, has been changed beyond recognition by the Primary Education Committee of the Central Education Board presided over by our Prime Minister, nor shall I, in this address, deal with the question of secondary education, as we are not yet aware of the considered views of the Government of our Province. But I would like to make a reference to the report of the Committee recently appointed by the Government of Bombay to advise them "on the question of vocational training for boys and girls in primary and secondary schools in the Province of Bombay." This Committee, on which there was no University representative, and which had nothing to do with the question of higher education, or with what should be the test of entrance to the University, have gone out of their way to recommend the abolition of the Matriculation Examination, and to advise that the entrance to the University should be by tests held by affiliated colleges. These recommendations have led to a prevailing impression among the public that the Government have decided to abolish the Matriculation Examination, which the University has rightly claimed as entirely its own affair, being purely and simply an entrance examination to the University courses of study. I would like here to sound a note of warning. It is not the first time that the question of abolishing the Matriculation Examination has been raised, nor is it the first time that the University has been advised to modernise the Matriculation Examination and to provide alternative courses of study. Such efforts have been made in the past and have failed. As a result of six years experience gained in this University, I would earnestly request Government to leave the question of the Matriculation Examination to be dealt with by the University.

HIGHER EDUCATION IN DANGER

What has been worrying me, however, and I am sure, has been worrying people interested in the cause of education in this country is the attitude towards higher education of certain influential persons who control the policies of the Provincial Governments of the day, and this attitude has raised an apprehension in our minds that higher education is in danger of being starved. The problem of higher education is our main concern, and I think it necessary that I should say something about it here, particularly in view of certain recent pronouncements regarding it. There is a great danger in accepting the principle that higher education should be self-supporting, and that the liability of the State should be restricted to educating persons whose services are required by the State. Apart from the narrow utilitarianism on which this principle rests, to advocate it is to shut one's eyes to the teachings of political philosophy. The interest of the State does not lie solely in the production of clerks and officers needed for carrying on the administration of the country. Government is not an end in itself. It exists for the good of the country. The needs of the country are greater and far more important than the needs of the administration. While the country requires the services of persons who can run the administration, even more does it need the services of publicists, educationists, industrialists, scientists, leaders of thought, members of the learned professions and, above all, good citizens. Higher education is as essential for the life of a nation as primary or secondary education. Higher education has a cultural as well as an economic value. It may be argued that the holding of examinations and award of degrees and diplomas being the functions of Universities, the latter can very well be expected to support themselves by charging adequate fees for admissions to their examinations and for the award of degrees and diplomas, and that only those who can afford to pay such fees should take advantage of University education. Whatever may have been the conception of the main function of Universities in days gone by, it is becoming increasingly clear that the holding of examinations and the conferring of degrees and diplomas are not the only purposes for which Universities exist. Universities have, indeed, a much higher function to fulfil in the life of the nation. They play a very important part in that life, not only by liberalising the spirit and ennobling the soul of the nation but also by helping the nation to increase its material wealth by promoting scientific and industrial research. For the last two years given direct encouragement to research by providing money to the extent of over Rs. 10,000 annually for instituting research studentships in the various affiliated Institutions.

CLAIM OF HIGHER EDUCATION

For the expansion of all our activities private effort is no doubt necessary, but the moral and the material support of Government is equally necessary. The fact that, in spite of financial stringency, the Government of Bombay have hitherto maintained intact the grants to colleges, and have even provided funds for the revival of the old Deccan College in the shape of Departments of psychology, education and postgraduate training, encourages the hope that the Government of Bombay, at any rate, will not accept the doctrine that higher education and scientific research have no claims on the Government, and that the rumours we have been hearing of late of the proposal to abolish the Elphinstone College and to close down the science departments of the Government Arts College in the Province have no foundation. Indeed, it would be a strange irony of fate if the responsible governments of the day, in possession of power, for the acquisition of which they had to put up a strenuous fight, were now to refrain from doing the very things which the former bureaucratic government was blamed for not doing.

UNEMPLOYMENT QUESTION

Another important problem on which I wish to say a few words is the problem of unemployment, which has been agitating the public mind not only in this country but in all countries of the civilised world. It is often forgotten that this problem is primarily an economic problem, and that it is, therefore, the duty of the State to tackle it.

Muslim League, therefore, does not require any admission or recognition from the Congress, nor did the resolution of the Executive Council at Bombay. But in view of the fact that the position—in fact the very existence—of the League had been questioned by Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, the then President of the Congress, in one of his statements wherein he asserted that there were only two parties in the country, viz. the British Government and the Congress, it was considered necessary by the Executive Council to inform the Congress of the basis on which the negotiations between the two organisations could proceed.

Besides, the very fact that the Congress approached the Muslim League to enter into negotiations for a settlement of the Hindu-Muslim question, it pre-supposed the authoritative and representative character of the League, and as such, its right to come to an agreement on behalf of the Muslims of India.

The Council are aware of the fact that there is a Congress Coalition Government in N.W.F.P. and also that there are some Muslims in the Congress organisations in other provinces. But the Council is of opinion that these Muslims in the Congress do not and cannot represent the Mussalmans of India, for the simple reason that their number is very insignificant, and that as members of the Congress, they have disabled themselves from representing or to speak on behalf of the Muslim Community. Were it not so, the whole claim of the Congress alleged in your letter regarding its national character would fall to the ground.

As regards "the other Muslims organisations" to which reference has been made in your letter, but whom you have not even named, the Council considers that it would have been more proper, if no reference had been made to them. If they collectively or individually had been in a position to speak on behalf of the Mussalmans of India, the negotiations with the Muslim League for a settlement of the Hindu-Muslim question would not have been initiated by the President of the Congress and Mr. Gandhi.

So far as the Muslim League is concerned, it is not aware that any Muslim political organisation has ever made a claim that it can speak or negotiate on behalf of the Muslims of India. It is, therefore, very much to be regretted that you should have referred to "other Muslim organisations" in this connection.

The Council is equally anxious to bring about a settlement of "the much-vexed Hindu-Muslim question" and thus hasten the realisation of the common goal, but it is painful to find that subtle arguments are being introduced to cloud the issue, and retard the progress of the negotiations.

In view of the facts stated above, the Council wishes to point out that it considered undesirable the inclusion of Muslims in the committee that might be appointed by the Congress, because it would meet to solve and settle

Relief For Tenants And In debted Masses

The Congress cannot possibly consider itself or function, as if it represented one community only, even though that might be that majority community in India. Its doors must inevitably be open to all communities, and it must welcome all Indians, who agree with its general policy and methods. It cannot accept the position of representing one community, and thus itself becoming a communal organisation. At the same time, the Congress is perfectly willing to confer and co-operate with other organisations which represent minority interests.

It is obvious that the Mussalmans of India, although a minority in the whole country, form a very considerable part of the population, and their desires must be considered in any scheme affecting India. It is also true that the All-India Muslim League is an organisation representing a large body of Muslim opinion, which must carry weight. It is for this reason that the Congress has endeavoured to understand the viewpoint of the League and to come to an understanding with it.

The Congress, however, would be bound to consult other existing Muslim organisations which have co-operated with the Congress in the past. Further, in the event of other group or minority interests being involved, it will be necessary to consult representatives of such interests.

The Next Stage

I think the note is self-explanatory. Having made known the Congress reaction to your suggestion, according to us, it remains now to proceed to the next stage, namely, the appointment of respective committees which will jointly settle the terms of understanding.—Yours sincerely, Subhas C. Bose.

Congress Cabinet's Reply (Camp) Wardha. Dear Mr. Jinnah

The Working Committee has given all the attention it was possible for it to give to the resolutions of the Muslim Council of the Muslim League which you were good enough to enclose with your letter of the 6th June 1938.

The first resolution of the League Council defines the status of the League. If it means that before we proceed to set up a machinery for considering the terms of settlement of the communal question, the Congress should recognise the status as defined in that resolution.

There is an obvious difficulty. Though the resolution does not use the adjective 'only', the language of the resolution means that the adjective is understood. Already, the Working Committee has received warnings against recognising the exclusive status of the League.

There are Muslim organisations which have been functioning independently of the Muslim League. Some of them are staunch supporters of the Congress.

Moreover, there are individual Muslims, who are Congressmen, some of whom exercise no considerable influence in the country.

Then, there is the Frontier Province which is overwhelmingly Muslim and which is solidly with the Congress. You will see that, in the face of these known facts, it is not only impossible, but improper for the Congress to make the admission which the first resolution of the League Council apparently desires the Congress to make.

It is suggested that the status of organisations does not accrue to them by any defining of it. It comes through the service to which a particular organisation has dedicated itself. The Working Committee, therefore, hopes that the League Council will not ask the Congress to do the impossible. Is it not enough that the Congress is not only willing but eager to establish the friendliest relations with the League and to come to an honourable understanding over the much-vexed Hindu-Muslim question?

At this stage, it may perhaps be as well to state the Congress claim. Though it is admitted that the largest number of persons to be found on the numerous Congress registers are Hindus, the Congress has a fairly large number of Muslims and members of other communities professing different faith. It has been an unbroken tradition with the Congress to represent all communities, all races and all classes to whom India is their home. From its inception, it has often had distinguished Muslims as Presidents and as General Secretaries, who enjoyed the confidence of the Congress and of the country. The Congress tradition is that although a Congressman does not cease to belong to the faith in which he is born and bred up, no one comes to the Congress by virtue of his faith; he is in and of the Congress by virtue of his endorsement of the political principles and policy of the Congress.

The Congress, therefore, is in no sense a communal organisation. In fact, it has always fought the communal spirit, because it is detrimental to the growth of pure and undefiled nationalism. But whilst the Congress makes this claim, and has sought, with more or less success, to live up to the claim, the Working Committee asks for no recognition from the League Council. The Committee would be glad, if your Council would come to an understanding with the Congress, in order that we might achieve national solidarity and wholeheartedly work for realising our common destiny.

As to the second resolution of the Council, I am afraid that it is not possible for the Working Committee to conform to the desire expressed therein.

The third resolution of the Working Committee is unable to understand. So far as the Working Committee is concerned, the Muslim League is a purely communal organisation, in the sense that it seeks to serve Muslim interests, and its membership, too, is open only to Muslims.

The Working Committee also has all along understood that so far as the League is concerned, it desires and rightly, a settlement with the Congress on the Hindu-Muslim and not on questions affecting all minorities. So far as the Congress is concerned, if the other minorities have a grievance against the Congress, it is always ready to deal with them, as it is its bounden duty to do, being by its very constitution an organisation representative of all India without distinction of caste or creed.

In view of the foregoing, I hope that it will be possible for us to take next stage in our negotiations for reaching a settlement.

It is suggested that as the previous correspondence has already been published, it would be wise to take the public into confidence, and publish the subsequent correspondence between us. If you are agreeable, these documents will be immediately released for publication.

Yours sincerely, (Sd.) S. C. BOSE. Sri. M. A. Jinnah.

Jinnah's "No" To Congress Little Gibbs Road, Malabar Hill, Bombay, 2nd Aug. 1938.

Dear Mr. Bose, I placed your letter dated the 25th of July 1938 before the meeting of the Executive Council of the All-India Muslim League.

The Executive Council gave its earnest attention and careful consideration to the arguments which were urged in your letter for persuading it not to claim the status it has done in its resolution No. 1 already communicated to you.

I am desired to state that in defining the status, the Council was not actuated by any motive of securing an admission, but had merely stated an accepted fact.

The Council is fully convinced that the Muslim League is the only authoritative and representative political organisation of the Mussalmans of India. This position was accepted when the Congress-League Pact was arrived at in 1915 at Lucknow, and ever since, till 1935 when Jinnah-Rajendra Prasad conversation took place, it has not been questioned. of the Congress declaring that India can be no party to an imperialist war and cannot allow her men and resources to be exploited without the consent of her people. The Bill was a challenge to this verdict of the Congress. It was practically a declaration of war against the Congress. What was the origin of the Bill? Did the inspiration come from the Punjab or from over the seas? (A voice: Hitler.) (Laughter.)

ZAFAR ALI BLOWS HOT AND COLD

Maulana Zafar Ali referred to the anxiety shown in the speeches hitherto made from the Congress and the Government benches to get the support of the Muslim League. Why this anxiety, he asked. The Congress outside the Assembly, had not recognised the Muslim League as representative of the Muslims in India. The Government invited Mahatma Gandhi and others, he said, not Mr. Jinnah. This Congress and the Government represented two imperialisms and yet they wanted the help of the Muslim League. Why? Because between the two imperialisms, it stood raising the standard of democracy aloft. It stood for justice and fairplay and was the determining factor in the discussions on all matters in India. "If Mr. Ogilvie thinks we are tied to the apron strings of Dame Britannia, he is mistaken. I want India to be free and as a Mussalman, I cannot forget what Britishers did in 1914."

SINCE 1914

But since 1914 change had come over the British mentality. The world was standing at the brink of a precipice and even Mahatma Gandhi with his gospel of non-violence wanted an army. "I am with my Congress friends when they say that India's military resources shall not be exploited for imperialist purposes, but I realise that the mainstay of India is the army and I want every son of India to be a soldier. India should be prepared for a war. We are even prepared to be allies of Britain, if she requires our military help and if that help does not run counter to our interests."

He agreed with the object of the Bill to punish attempt to dissuade any one from enlisting in the army; but, when it came to the question of using these recruits for imperialist purposes, for blowing up Palestine or bombing Waziristan or dismembering of Arabia, the Bill would be mischievous. Many Bills, such as the Press Bill, had been passed in good faith, but later used for purposes that the originators never intended. His opinion was that the Bill should be passed with amendments that the House might make, but should go to the provinces thereafter and the provinces should enforce the provisions whenever they consider it necessary. He did not want the irresponsible Central Government to have this new weapon of repression in their hands.

HOME MEMBER'S DEFENCE.

Mr. Maxwell, Home Member, speaking after lunch referred to two specific points raised in the course of the debate yesterday, namely, the changes in the Criminal Law Amendment Act of 1935, in which Section 2 of the Amendment of 1932 was omitted. The reason for this, he said, was due to the fact that during 1932 the civil disobedience movement was going on, while in 1935 the Government felt that the House should not be pressed for measures that were unnecessary then. At the same time it was possible to bring up such a measure, if and when anti-recruitment movements were gathering strength as at present. Turning to the reason for justifying the policy adumbrated in the present Bill, Mr. Maxwell gave a brief resume of the circumstances. Information had been coming in, he said, ever since the beginning of April 1937 when the New Constitution was inaugurated to the effect that anti-recruitment speeches were becoming a more frequent feature of public meetings from April to December 1937.

PROPAGANDA IN PUNJAB.

115 different anti-recruitment speeches were made at 71 meetings in the Punjab. Nine of these were in Ambala, four in Rohtak, 25 in Amritsar, ten in Rawalpindi, four in Shahpur, seven in Multan Division—three being in Lyallpur. These meetings were promoted, he continued, largely by speakers from outside the Punjab and a dead set was being made in the Punjab recruitment areas. The most frequent occasions, when these speeches occurred were at meetings with a definite Socialist bias, namely, Socialist meetings, Kisan conferences, and Youth League meetings. The appeals made at these meetings, he pointed out, were either direct, that is urging the audience not to supply recruits or by declaring that the people should refrain from helping the British Government in wars, in which they may be engaged. The result of this type of propaganda, he said, was evidenced by the report of a Recruiting Officer according to whom, there had been a falling off in recruitment in the Sheikhupura, Gujranwalla and other districts.

GOVT. SATISFIED.

Since December 1937 there had been 130 meetings in the Punjab and during the second week of July there were nine. Recent reports he emphasised, showed that this propaganda was also being carried on in the Central Provinces, Bihar, Orissa, Benal and one meeting of this nature had taken place in Bombay. Some of the speakers at these meetings went to the extent of exhorting the people not only to abstain from helping the British Government, but to join their enemies and fight against the British Government. Reports of this type had been coming in with monotonous regularity and the Government, he said, were satisfied of the widespread existence of such propaganda and the need for meeting it with such a Bill.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

Proceeding to deal with the speeches made in the House in favour of 'pacifism', Mr. Maxwell expressed the doubt whether many members would support the type of propaganda against which the Bill aimed, if they really believed it would be successful. He doubted whether they would wish to see the Indian Army defeated on Indian soil for want of recruits or see Indians enter the Army only in order to act as traitors. The real object of the Opposition was not to give a blessing to the activities which the Bill sought to prevent, but to assert and abstract the proposition that India desired to make and manage its own army and to assert the general desire for self-determination. He realised that such sentiment might be honestly held, but if the Bill were to be rejected merely as a gesture, regardless of the immediate practical requirements of India, he would submit it was the wrong way to assert the principle. It was playing with fire, gambling with the safety of India.

CRY FOR "NATIONAL ARMY."

Mr. Maxwell quoted declarations made by earlier speakers Mr. Satyamurthi and Mr. Asaf Ali: "We want a National Army," and "we will find the men."

These, declared Mr. Maxwell, are not pacifist sentiments. (Loud Laughter.)

Mr. Satyamurthi on a point of personal explanation said that what he said was India wanted an Army not to fight imaginary enemies, but to promote world peace.

Mr. Maxwell referred to the "widespread desire" for military training in the country indicated by reports of schemes framed by the United Provinces, Bihar and other Provincial Governments, as also Dr. Moonje's Military School at Nasik. Did all this mean pacifism? (Renewed Laughter.)

"But Mr. Satyamurthi explains that India wants an army in order to keep peace in the world. How it is going to do this, in a way different from that of Britain, is not very clear. But Mr. Satyamurthi speaks as though non-violence were the solution. But it is instructive to hear his comments on the non-violent policy of Britain. 'Britain has become like an old woman afraid of every dictator' says he. It is surprising to find Mr. Satyamurthi criticising Britain for being insufficiently violent. Is there not a danger that a non-violent Indian Army might meet with similar contempt from marauding nations? Or that the test made of alleged British habit of invoking God might be by unsympathetic people turned against the odour of a sanctity surrounding non-violence? God is on the side of the big battalions, and so, I may add, is non-violence." (Prolonged cheers and laughter.)

LECTURE ON LOYALTY.

It might be said: "all we want is to build up our own army." But did not members realise that the building up of an army required time and training? India might have numbers: it might have the will to serve; but had these things by themselves helped in Spain, China or Abyssinia against a better equipped opponent? It was the height of rashness to say: "Because we have not yet an army made by ourselves, therefore, we can contemplate with equanimity the subversion, the destruction of the Indian Army we now possess." This Army was to-day and for a long time to come India's own army and must be the foundation of any larger army in the future. Disloyalty to the Indian Army was disloyalty to India. At any rate the Government could not be a party to any such rashness. No Government, this or any other, could afford to gamble with a big risk, when the safety of the country was at stake.

BRITAIN'S PRESTIGE

Mr. Aikman opposing the amendments said he was grateful for the references made to the influence of Great Britain in international councils, for they gave him an opportunity to refute the statements belittling Britain's prestige. That prestige, he declared, was higher than that of any other country. Proof of this was in the choice of an Englishman—Lord Runciman—as an adviser in the settlement of a most difficult internal problem of one of the smaller, but most important countries of Europe. It had been declared that if the British Empire broke up it would be an occasion for peace and prosperity throughout the world. Just the contrary must be the case. Britain had been referred to as the cornerstone of world's peace and even the Congress press had frequently demanded that England should intervene to stop acts of aggression by Japan, Italy and Germany. Apparently, they still depended on the British Empire as a peacemaker. The European group felt that putting political and Party considerations on one side, it would be generally agreed that at this critical juncture it would be in the highest degree unwise to put any obstacle in the way of those, who were responsible for providing for the safety of the country.

JEST OF THE WORLD

Lala Shamal, in a humorous speech, refuted the claims that Britain's prestige stood higher now than ever. He quoted Mr. Lloyd George as having declared that Britain had become the jest of the whole world, in allowing herself to be used by the Dictators as they liked. He thought that like wealthy men becoming flabby and soft, Great Britain also had lost the will to fight. The real reason for the Bill, he declared was that after the last war to which India contributed her share on the promise of many great things for her, Martial Law and Crawling Orders destroyed faith in the word of the British Government and as the late Lala Lajpat Rai said that the word of a British Prime minister was not as good as that of a grocer.

A SHORT STORY

Ina's Revenge

(By BARBARA ANN BENEDICT.)

"I'm going to get even with that man, if it's the last thing I do!" Ina Carlton's eyes were blazing.

"I presume," said Marlene Dale, "that you refer to Boylston's famous bachelor, Phil Bacon?"

"You know very well whom I mean! You were there. You saw him snub me! Right in front of all those other girls! Oh, I can still see their hideous, laughing faces!"

She suddenly flung herself on the divan, burying her face in the pillows.

Marlene sat down on the edge of the divan. "You're a little idiot to act this way, Ina. And you're not playing fair with Phil. He didn't snub you. He merely treated you as he does all the other girls in town. We all like him; we'd all like to know him better. The fact that he's trying to stay a bachelor until he gets his real estate business built up, doesn't justify your anger. Because you happen to be the village queen and have all the yokels trailing after you, you're gripped because Phil treated you like a human being."

"This, from her best friend was small consolation. Ina began to scheme for revenge. Secretly she loved Phil Bacon.

An idea came. It took form slowly, but by the time she reached home, she had formed a definite plan. She slept little that night.

Early the next morning Ina entered the office of Phil Bacon and Co., Phil, good looking, friendly, greeted his visitor warmly, though with a certain reserve.

"Good morning," said Ina brightly. "I'm Ina Carlton. Perhaps you remember that we were introduced two days ago at Mrs. Whipple's party."

It cost her an effort to sound cordial. "Indeed I do remember, Miss Carlton. Is there anything I can do?"

His business-like tones were discouraging. "Yes, there is. You see, we have a piece of property—an old house—out on the Mendon Road. Last night father decided to dispose of it, and asked me to drop in and see you about the matter."

"Is it the colonial place that sets back from the highway?" Phil asked eagerly.

"It is," returned Ina. "Have you a prospect already?"

Phil's eyes shone. "Miss Carlton, I believe I can dispose of that property for you within two days. A man was in here yesterday and asked about it. Do you think dollars 10,000 would suit your father?"

"I think," said Ina, "that would be fine. In fact it is the exact figure he mentioned." She hesitated. "Father is out of town for a few days. I'd love to have the place sold for him by the time he gets back. Will you rush things along?"

Phil smiled. "I'll get in touch with my prospect to-day. And, 'he looked deep into her eyes, 'I'm mighty grateful to you for this opportunity, Miss Carlton. Business hasn't been so brisk."

"I'm glad," said Ina, "of the opportunity to help you."

Ina left the real estate office and went in search of Marlene. She felt the need of congenial company. But Marlene wasn't home, and so she strolled out on the Mendon Road. Her thoughts were disturbed. Her scheme to get revenge on Phil Bacon was working well, too well. The seriousness of what she had done, now that her anger had cooled, began to develop in her mind. After all, she thought, it was only her own selfishness that prompted the idea. Phil, she was forced to admit, was really quite a fine and upright young man. He had treated her as he had treated all the other girls. In fact, Ina finally admitted, that it was her own conceit after all, that brought about her storm of anger.

By the time she had reached the old colonial house, Ina had about made up her mind to swallow her pride and confess to Phil.

She shuddered at the thought, and then suddenly her heart ceased beating. Phil's roadster was in the drive. Moreover, there was Phil himself talking with a stranger in the front yard. The youth, apparently, was pointing out the house's advantages.

Ina ran up the drive. Phil turned at sound of her cry, left his companion and came to meet her. "Phil—Mr. Bacon! Don't let him buy! Don't! You'll be arrested!" She was breathless. "I wanted to get revenge because you snubbed me, so I—I—"

Phil stared at her. "I don't believe I understand."

"Don't you see! Father doesn't own this place! I merely said he did so you'd sell it and get in trouble with the real owner. It was a mean, silly trick. I'm sorry."

Phil's features relaxed. "Why, I'm glad you told me, Ina—Miss Carlton. And about that snubbing, too. I really wanted to know you better, but—well, it didn't seem possible that such a pretty girl would be interested in me."

"But—but—then you haven't sold the house?"

"Well, not exactly. I bought it myself a week ago. That man you see up there is my architect. I was explaining to him some change I wanted made."

speaker on the Government side that the peasantry in the Punjab were anxious for a war, Lala Shamal said it was not due to loyalty. It was due to the argument of the stomach. There was also another kind of war, which many Government officials welcomed. For instance, he knew of a Deputy Collector who asked him: "When are you going to start non-co-operation again? When you had the last non-co-operation movement, every British officer salaamed me. But not now." (loud laughter.)

He also knew of several nominated members of the House, who welcomed the entry of the Congress Party in the Assembly, because they said, when the Government heard what the Congress members had to say about it, when the Government spokesmen would begin to have more respect for their supporters (renewed laughter).

So the problem of bread drove

ATTACK ON CIVIL LIBERTY.

Mr. N. M. Joshi, opposing the Bill, declared that the Bill placed unjustifiable restrictions on civil liberties of the people. There were people, who held that war should not be a weapon that should be used in international disputes and to restrict their freedom, there must be sufficient moral justification. Continuing, he asked, whether the mighty Government of India cannot put up 1,500 speakers to counteract the effect of the speeches of 155 Socialist speakers. He wanted the Government to meet the argu-

ISLAM'S GREATEST SAINT

Dr. Hidayat Hosain's
Lecture

At an ordinary monthly meeting of the Royal Asiatic Society of Bengal, Dr. Hidayat Hosain read a short account of the life of the greatest Saint of Islam, Shaikh Muhi-ud-Din Abdul Qadir al-Jilani, founder of the Qadiriya sect.

The saint was born in A. D. 1077 at Nif in the district of Jilan, south of the Caspian Sea. He came to Bagdad in 1095 A. D. for the sake of study and attended lectures of great savants of the age. After his scholastic career, as a hermit he spent long years in the desert and amid ruins around Bagdad. Several reliable authorities state that the saint spent 11 years in a lonely tower outside Bagdad, which ever since has borne the name of Burj al-Ajami. In 1127 A. D. he felt himself called back in the world for the guidance of mankind and consequently returned to Bagdad. His fame spread far and wide and students from Mesopotamia, Persia and Egypt thronged at his door. The Madrasah, where he lectured, had to be enlarged on this account. Among his 24 titles of works, still existing in manuscripts in the libraries of Europe, five have been printed so far.

One of the saint's book "Futuh al-Ghalib" (Conquest of Mystery) in 78 chapters, deals with different topics of Sufism, and embodies within it treatment of such questions as spiritual death, unconsciousness of created things, banishment of cares from the heart, drawing near unto God, and how to reach God through the medium of a spiritual guide.

The order and brotherhood founded by the saint goes by the name Qadiriya. On his death in 1166 A.D., the order was led by his sons and disciples. It possesses important monasteries at Jiddah, Madina and Mecca. In Constantinople it owns 40 monasteries. It is widespread in Egypt and its missionaries have advanced as far as Khartoum, Kordofan, Darfur, Borneo and Sokoto. There are monasteries at Tripoli, Algeria and Morocco, while in the East in the Dutch East Indies and Chinese Yunnan.

In India, the order was introduced by Muhammad Ghaws, one of the Shaik's descendants in 1482 A.D. Ghaws took up his residence at Uch in Sind and died in 1517. The order here received the patronage of the emperors.

The meeting was presided over by Dr. A. M. Heron, Director of Geological Survey of India.

CONGRESS FLAG OVER MUNICIPAL BUILDING

Resolution Suspended By Executive Order

JULLUNDUR, August 16.
The resolution passed by the Municipal Committee of Banga recommending that the Congress Flag be hoisted in future over its building has, it is learnt, been suspended by the Deputy Commissioner of Jullundur.

The resolution was passed by the casting vote of the President and one of the members of the Congress Party voted against it.—A.P.

Improved conditions of service for army officers, announced recently by Mr. Hore-Belisha, Secretary for War, will, it is expected, be followed by a considerable increase in the number of competitors for cadet colleges.

ANDHERI RESIDENTS' GRIEVANCE

Hold Number Of Seats On Parla Municipality
Not Enough

A public meeting was held at Gazdar Hall, Andheri, on Sunday when Sjt. S. K. Patil presided. Sheth Mathuradas Vissonji, Mr. Rashid M. Futehally, Mr. Barfiwala, Mr. Pareira, Mr. Dhirajlal C. Modi and other leading men of Andheri were present.

The President, at the outset, explained the reasons for the holding of that meeting to express the feeling of Andheri in respect of the recent Government Communication about the total seat and the reservation of seats in the Vile Parle Municipality and why the same were unsatisfactory from the point of view of Andheri's residents.

Mr. Barfiwala then moved the following resolution:—

"This public meeting of the citizens of Andheri resolves that the allotment of seats to Andheri in the Vile Parle Municipality, as per recent resolution of the Government is not satisfactory in view of the greater population of the Andheri area, but it accepts the allotment in the present circumstances and expresses its definite opinion that at this late stage, it is inadvisable to make any changes in the number and reservation of seats at present between Andheri and Vile Parle."

ANDHERI T.O.C.'S OPINION
ENDORSED

"This meeting also endorses the opinion expressed by the Andheri Taluka Congress Committee in this connection."

Mr. Barfiwala said that although the population of Andheri was larger than Vile Parle, there was a move by some of the members of Vile Parle public to have an unequal number of seats between Andheri and Vile Parle by transference of certain reserved seats and such a move was detrimental to Andheri's interest.

Mr. Dabholkar, the nominated member of the Vile Parle Municipality, supported the resolution and said that the whole object was to bring to the notice of the Government and especially of the Hon. Minister of the Local Self-Government the views of the Andheri public regarding the allotment of seats, as between Andheri and Vile Parle.

Mr. Harilal N. Contractor proposed that the resolution be communicated to the authorities concerned. It was seconded by Dr. Bhatt.

After a vote of thanks to the Chair, the meeting dispersed.

NAZIMUDDIN ADMITS THERE WAS STONE- THROWING

When Bose Sustained Injuries At Brahmanbaria

CALCUTTA, Aug. 15.
After four days recess following the disposal of the no-confidence motions against the Ministers the Bengal Legislative Assembly met this evening.

Replying to a question by Mr. Dhirendranath Dutt, (Congress) Sir Nazimuddin, Home Minister, admitted that some stones were thrown as a procession accompanying Mr. Subhas Chandra Bose at Brahmanbaria on June 15 was turning north into the town after coming along the railway station and that Mr. Bose sustained slight injury in the neck and also other persons were injured. He added that a crowd assembled in the compound of the George High School, which bordered on the railway on the south at level crossing. A shoe was thrown from the south of the railway line at the train proceeding the one, by which Mr. Bose travelled.

The Sub-Divisional Officer and the Sub-Divisional police officer received information of this fact only ten minutes, before Mr. Bose's train was due to arrive. Black flags were carried and party slogans (but not abusive comment) were shouted by an orderly group of Muslims, standing on or near the route of the procession. The Sub-Divisional police officer, however, directed the posting of constables in reserve near the route and when stone throwing took place the Sub-Divisional police officer themselves dispersed the crowd with the aid of some by-standers.—A. Three Sadhus have been frozen to death in an attempt to cross the Mansa Pass (17,890 feet) on the Tibetan Frontier, says a message from Nandprayag.

It is reported that two of the Sadhus were found prostrated full length on the glittering snow with their companion leaning against the jagged wall of the pass. Their lives were extinct long before any help reached them.—United Press

HAVE YOU FALSE TEETH?

OVER 10,000 DENTISTS ADVISE
THIS NEW, BETTER WAY TO KEEP THEM CLEAN & GERM FREE

"I have tested 'Steradent' carefully in my surgery and find that it definitely does clean the most filthy dentures, removing tartar and tobacco stains entirely after three or four immersions. In my test cases no brushing whatever has been done. Prolonged immersion in 'Steradent' did not cause any damage to the dentures." This report from a well-known Dentist is just one of many hundreds of similar unsolicited letters from members of the Dental Profession who have given 'Steradent' a clinical test.

The 'Steradent' formula is a new, scientific discovery. Its sole use is to clean and purify false teeth, and it does this as nothing else has ever done before. Just shake a little 'Steradent' powder in a glass of warm water. Stir well. Leave your false teeth, plates and bridges in it while you dress or for overnight, then just rinse. Every stain disappears. Plates regain their whiteness, flesh-pink colour. Dirty, discoloured teeth become beautifully clean, lustrous and natural-looking. Your plates feel so smooth, cool, comfortable—no odour, or unpleasant taste. Every tiny crevice is cleaned, purified, sterilised. Brushing is a thing of the past—'Steradent' is so much more thorough and efficient, and is guaranteed harmless. Satisfactory results in every case. "I consider 'Steradent' to be the best denture cleaner in existence," said Mr. W.—L.D.S., R.C.S., Ed., a leading Dentist, when writing recently upon the subject of denture hygiene.

MAGISTRATE DISPERSES MEETING

Tussle Over Khare Incident Continues

AKOLA, Aug. 16.
A public meeting held last night to condemn the Congress Working Committee's resolution on the recent ministerial crisis in the Central Provinces came to an abrupt end owing to disturbance created by a section of Congressmen present at the meeting. Exception was taken to the remarks of a speaker about Congress attempts at solving the Hindu-Muslim issue etc.

An attempt made by Congressmen to convert the meeting into an official Congress meeting also failed. Ultimately the City Magistrate arrived on the scene and with the help of police dispersed the meeting.—A. P.

SEEN ON THE INDIAN SCREEN

Surendra and Prabha, Sagar's new star in "Gramophone Singer" shortly coming.

You Will Soon Hear The "Gramophone Singer"

Surendra, Bibbo And Prabha—A New Star

Picture making, as an industry, has in India now come to stay. By far the most encouraging evidence of this fact is the attempt to make films on a classified basis.

The latest branch in this classification is the Musical Comedy. Musical pictures have been made before, in large numbers. Comedies have been rarer—Sagar Movietone leading in them. Now the Sagar Studio combines the two elements in a hearty entertainment.

"Gramophone Singer", Sagar's next release, is (as the name suggests) a musical comedy.

The story of the picture is the emotional adventure of a noted singer for the Gramophone. With a brilliantly beautiful wife, he lives in quiet content, until his profession introduces him to a brilliant radio singer, a young woman of considerable fame in air programmes. As they sang together, the hearts of their listeners melted at their melody. Their own hearts melted, too; and, what is more, they mingled!

Followed a flight into a stormy heaven of bliss, till in the end they all found their feet on the good old solid earth.

The Gramophone Singer is Surendra, hero of "Manmohan" and "Jagirdar"—himself the idol of thousands of screen music lovers. The radio star is Bibbo, the Sagar music maker, who shared Surendra's success in "Manmohan" and "Jagirdar".

And wait for Prabha! She is the latest fair acquisition to the Sagar set of screen talent, and will make her appearance as the Gramophone Singer's wife. Coming from a well-known family from the Punjab, Prabha brings with her a cultured taste and a polished manner. Her great asset is her dazzling beauty of face, poise of gait and shapeliness of form.

With these three stars, will appear the ace group of Sagar's character actors—Sankatha, Advani, Pande, Jammu Patel and Pesi Patel.

Look out for "Gramophone Singer". It is the next change at the Imperial.

VACHAN TO BE SCREENED ON FRIDAY

See Devika Rani As Swordswoman On Horseback

Have you ever seen Devika Rani on horseback? Some of you who have seen her very first and English picture 'Karma' in which Mr. Himansu Rai also appeared as hero, have seen her on a fine white steed. But, no one has certainly seen her flourishing a naked steel sword and fighting her attackers away.

Indeed, some of her fans might even be under the illusion that the frail, slim school-girl like Devika is incapable of any such thing as swordsmanship. Well, they will be happily and delightfully disillusioned to see Devika Rani as a Rajput princess who like all ladies of old Rajput aristocracy, fences and attacks and gives convincing testimony of her being a finished swordswoman. Indeed, her native charm is seen to rare advantage when she makes her appearance as that.

For this one, single sight alone, the picture would be worth a visit. But to say that is to say very little about the excellence of the picture. It is a tale of romance and chivalry in which Ashoke Kumar makes his entry as a valiant warrior and an elegant lover. To see him travelling on horseback in the midst of dense jungles by the side of rivers, on the mountains in the plains and in the company of mountain tribes is an unusual sight. He is as much at home in a place as on the battlefield. His duel with the villain, played by Nazir is a remarkable highlight of the film.

There are, besides excellent dances led by Mumtaz Ali, songs by Ashoke Kumar, Devika Rani and Meera which will prove to be an enchanting attraction. The film is out of all formalities now and will be shown this Friday at the Roxy for the first time at 2-30 p. m.

"CHHOTE SARKAR" CATCHES

Leela Chitnis With Her Sweet Songs

During seven days run, both at the Edward and the Lamington, Sunder Movietone's "Chhote Sarkar" has earned such popularity as very few pictures can claim. It has been acclaimed as a musical success with a plot development which is so dramatic that it grips the public from the beginning to the end.

Of all players in the picture, Lila Chitnis is easily the best. Her songs are like live wires and her acting is superb. Playing opposite Jal Merchant she, in almost all scenes gives ample proofs of her artistic temperament and histrionic abilities. Lila Chitnis, it can be said without any hesitation, is the star of this year.

Hirabai Barodekar's Concert

On Saturday last was held a concert of vocal music at the Chikitsak Samuha High School, Wagie Hall, Kandewadi in which Mrs. Hirabai Barodekar, the well-known musician sang.

She began with a song in 'Poo-riya' which was well done. Then a song in 'Khamai' and a Thum-bri 'Asahi Dharata Yei Mohana' which was particularly appreciated. Her style of singing 'Adana' was not found satisfactory as the importation of speed and force in it would alone make it impressive. Songs in Bageshi and Sindhabharavi were quite satisfactory.

"RAJA GOPICHAND"—A PRODUCER'S PICTURE

"Raja Gopichand" running in the third week at Royal Opera House is universally acknowledged as a very successful picture; and, with that acknowledgement, the reputation of Saraswati Cinetone is established.

The very uniformity of its excellence in all aspects, makes "Raja Gopichand" a Producer's picture. Producer Dadasaheb Torney must be a proud man these days.

The "Jailor's" Philosophy

"It is never too late to learn", says the copy book of maxim. It is true in a sense, and untrue in another. From the point of view of a man's spiritual life, the maxim may well be true. In relation to our material surroundings, it is risky to guarantee its applicability.

For a man's spiritual existence is the one thing he can control and direct. Take, for example, the instance of the jailor in Minerva Movietone's social film "Jailor" now running the fifth week at the Krishna.

The jailor loves his wife dearly. There is devotion in him, but not the virtue of charity. So that, when the wife misbehaves, he takes a severe revenge on her. In time, he learns that the path of revenge is a barren path. From that moment, the jailor is an embodiment of compassion, forgiveness, humility and charity. He thus saves his own soul. But in material life, his lesson is learnt too late. His thirst for revenge has cost him all that was worth living for—his wife and his only child.

The compassion which he denied his wife, he later showers on the world at large. He gives it to a blind beggar girl, he also gives it to the man who had eloped with his wife and had thus caused his life's ruin.

Did the jailor win or lose?

"GORAKH AYA" IN WINNING FORM

"Ladies Lead: Families Follow" is a slogan that Ranjit Movietone has made part of its publicity campaign for their picture "Gorakh Aya" which is now in its third week at the West End. By the remarkably happy idea of devoting the release day to ladies, Ranjits have demonstrated the influence of feminine opinion. For "Gorakh Aya" has received a measure of popularity unknown in the recent career of the Ranjit studio.

Undoubtedly, this is one of Ranjit's best pictures. The popularity it has gained, is therefore fully merited. But it is obvious that, but for the subtle and inescapable influence, that feminine audiences of the first day have doubtless spread in the domestic sphere, the people's response to "Gorakh Aya" would not have been so immediate, or so completely satisfactory.

Mr. Chaturbhaj Doshi's direction and the performances of the cast—principally those of Raj Kumari and Mazhar in the leading roles—give the picture that tone of quality on which its success really rests.

CHARM OF "GOPAL KRISHNA" ENDURES

Prabhat's "Gopal Krishna" continues its popular run now in its fifteenth week at the Central. The picture has a beauty of theme and grace of form that give a fresh thrill every time.

In the history of Indian films, "Gopal Krishna" will probably be remembered principally for two circumstances connected with it. "Gopal Krishna" is the most appealing screen presentation of Shri Krishna's boyhood yet attempted on the screen; and with "Gopal Krishna" is established the reputation of one of the greatest character actors of the Indian screen—Parasharam—

Zareena Khatun and Shukla in 'Kumari or Vidhwa' shortly to be released by Bharatlaxmi.

"Dharti Mata"—A Camera Classic

Enthusiastic Reception At The Minerva

"Dharti Mata" fully upholds New Theatres' premier position among the nation's film producers. It justifies screen's claim to rank among civilization's major arts. "Dharti Mata" is about the nearest approach that the Indian screen has made to epic verse. The only other similar approach was also a New Theatres picture: "Vidyapati" was a very near approach to lyric verse. Seeing these pictures is to realise the essential unity of art in all its forms of expression; to realise that the source of all art is one common inspiration. There is the same imagery, the same psychological subtlety, the same rhythm (of action in place of words), the same grandeur (of scene in place of the meter) to match the loftiness of sentiment, in "Dharti Mata" as in a classical epic.

As it is, the songs and parts of the dialogue in "Dharti Mata" are poetic in style, sentiment and composition. For the essential poetic effect of the picture, however, the credit goes to Nitin Bose more completely than is ordinarily.

ly a film director's due; for Nitin Bose is responsible not only for the direction but also for the scenario and camera work of "Dharti Mata".

If the performances in "Dharti Mata" must be graded, common consent would probably give Umashashi the first place. The easy restraint of her manner and the irresistible charm of her singing entitle her to that rank. Saigal vies with her for the honour. There will be those who will give him a "dead heat" decision in singing. In performance, he brackets with Jagdish Sethi for a very creditable second place. And, almost neck to neck with them, are Kamlesh Kumari, Nawab and Nemo geometrically abreast. Altogether, it is a first class race for screen honour, in which only the "thoroughbreds" dare enter, and even a second or third place is beyond the hope of those in the common run.

"Dharti Mata" richly merits the wildly enthusiastic reception that the public is giving it at the Minerva Theatre.

Nazir, Gope, Omkar and M aster Shirazee make a lot of fun in Rajkumari at Super.

to vaidas or hakims. That would be no service to homoeopathy and if the legislators mean to serve the people and also the science, then some controlling examining board should be appointed. In the meantime, under section (33) exemption may be granted to all those practitioners of homoeopathy who can show that they have really gone through a respectable course of studies at some recognised institution or by a sub-section to section (16). I do not think the legislators should enter into the question of deciding whether a homoeopath is a better homoeopath because he is an allopath also or not. The claims of homoeopathy as such may be considered.

(D) The question of chromopathy and violet-ray and infra-ray therapy and biochemistry also will have to be considered and if they are found to be harmless, then again an exemption may be granted to them under this section.

A Matter Of Policy

One more question raised by the Vaidyas and Hakims appears to require some definite provision, and it is this. If a well-established reputed vaidya or hakim, though practising for over, say, ten or twenty years, refuses for one reason or another to be either on the register under Section 16 (2) or even on the list under Section 18, is he to be treated as an uneducated or half-educated quack, for the purposes of this Act or is he to be allowed to continue practising as a technically qualified man under the limitations of section (34) in spite of his not paying the registration fee nor his being on the register or the list? If relaxation is, granted, then, of course no vaidya or hakim would care either to pay the fee or be on the register and the very purpose of giving status to the old-established vaidyas and hakims is not fulfilled. But that is their loss, and the State, as I see it, is concerned with making provision for duly educated and qualified men and for prevention of quackery. The men under consideration have the right of being on the register and most certainly on the list and to that extent they have a right to the status of men qualified under the Act to practise. Therefore it would seem that even if some of them choose to refuse to come on the register or the list, the State will have to find a "via media," by making a provision to let them alone. On such an issue there is bound to be a difference, which is based on policy and not on principle and any decision would be acceptable so long as it does not create avoidable discontent without any material gain. There is, as shown above, no violation of principle involved if we leave them alone.

Emir Saud, Crown Prince of Saudi Arabia, and Emir Mohammed are arriving in London tomorrow on a private visit of about a month's duration.

TRAILER OF SHAPE OF THINGS TO COME

ments of those who spoke against recruitment. Did the Government expect recruitment to come in under any conditions of service, he asked. He advised the Government to improve conditions of service as in England, instead of placing restrictions of the type proposed in the Bill. When even British people did not agree that every war in which Britain engaged herself in was a holy war, it was wrong he pointed out, to expect that every Indian should abstain from preaching against recruitment for war in which they did not believe. He felt that Government was not following the right policy of recruitment when they divide the country into martial and non-martial classes and when recruitment was from restricted areas. If recruitment was thrown open to all India then 155 speakers could never work the harm which they were alleged to be doing in the Punjab.

Continuing he enquired whether every one, who resented against certain conditions, was a traitor. He referred to the restrictions placed on the students of the Military Academy at Dehra Dun on the newspapers that they were allowed to read and asked whether any blame can be apportioned for rebelling against such conditions. EXISTING LAW NOT ENOUGH! Sir Mamathathath Mukherjee, Law Member, in his maiden speech made a powerful reply to the legal arguments advanced against the Bill. He refuted the contention that the subject matter of the Bill came within the concurrent list and that, therefore, a measure of this kind should be brought not before the Provincial Legislatures, but before the Punjab Legislature, because the Punjab Government have asked for it. To Law Member dealt at length with the three lists of the Act and declared that the Bill was outside the scope of the Provincial Legislature, and fell within the purview of the Central Legislature. He asked members to dismiss the impression, if they had it, that the offences covered by the Bill were already covered by the existing law. The Government were aware that if the offences were allowed to continue unchecked they would have the effect of depleting the army and the army might disappear altogether. He was not concerned with the question whether such disappearance was desirable or not. If any member believed that the disappearance of the Indian Army would not bring disaster, but would be a blessing, he was content to leave him to that opinion. (Laughter.)

NO REAL DISTINCTION

It had been argued that by this Bill the Government were not amending the existing Criminal Law, but adding to the Law. Legally, he said, there was no real distinction between the two. It had again been declared, that Government were creating a new offence. The justification for that, he said, was that acts, which were not previously committed, were now being committed. The Government pleaded guilty to the charge of creating new offences, but they stood on the ground that the existing law did not cover cases covered by the present Bill. The argument that the Bill contravened the elementary principle of presumption of innocence of the accused and the burden of proof resting on the prosecution was also not sound. Bona fide speeches on pacifism could be delivered even after the Bill became law; and in providing the burden of proof of good faith under the two exceptions to the Bill should rest on the accused. No new principle was being imported. This principle was already embodied in the Indian Penal Code.

Mr. Jinnah interrupting asked whether the Government brought this Bill because the Punjab Government asked for it or because the Government of India were satisfied with the necessity. Sir M. N. Mukherjee replied that both elements were present. The Punjab Government and the Government of India had justified the provisions of the Bill.

The Law Member was loudly cheered as he sat down.

Mr. Abdul Qayyum opposing the Bill declared that it did not refer to military or naval matters, but only to the general public who are outside these forces. Therefore he said it was provincial subject and it was for the Punjab Government to bring forward such a measure if they so desired. It was unfair, he asserted, to bring in the name of the Punjab Government in connection with such an unpopular measure. He wanted to know why the other provinces were not referred to in this matter. The question, he said, was whether the British Empire was worth fighting for. This Empire, he

Prospects Of Mandatory Loan On Cotton Crop

RESTRICTED TURNOVER ON NEW YORK EXCHANGE

Uncertainty Over Foreign Political Situation

Bombay, Aug. 16. The Dow Jones Agency, Washington States that revising the previous position, A.A.A. Officials have intimated that a cotton loan would not be considered as mandatory until average of ten spot markets dropped below 8.25 against 8.25 as mentioned as the deadline. Apparently A.A.A. is seeking out technicalities with a view to avoid as long as possible the application of mandatory loan provisions to the Farm Act.

Confusion as to the loan is tending to restrict interest in the New York cotton market. It is reported that the parity prices will be 15.57 which is taken to indicate that the A.A.A. is reluctant to make the loan immediately effective, but general opinion is that eventual conditions will compel the loan.

NEW YORK MARKET.

The New York cotton market opened steady and sagged to new tones on Liverpool and Bombay selling and hedge pressure. Prices then steadied up in sympathy with stocks and on unfavourable rains in the Central Belt and a tropical storm near Louisiana coupled with uncertainty over the foreign political situation.

The market opened at a decline of the point with October 8.12 and touched 8.10 on scattered selling. There was the low level as prices later advanced to 8.18 on improved demand and the market closed at a net rise of 2 to 3 points. Spot cotton prices advanced 2 points at 8.27c. per lb.

NEW ORLEANS MARKET.

The New Orleans cotton futures market was quiet with a small business and closed at a decline of one to two points. Spot cotton prices declined 2 points at 8.20c. per lb.

LIVERPOOL MARKET.

The Liverpool cotton futures market opened at a decline of 3 points with October 4.55. There was light fair Eastern buying which met liquidation. Loan and political uncertainties are restricting enterprise. In the morning there was scattered liquidation and a little poor. In the afternoon there was local support and offerings light. The market closed at a decline of 3 points. Middling American spot cotton prices declined 2 points at 4.70c. per lb.

EGYPTIAN COTTON.

There was increased selling in this section and Giza futures declined 12 to 14 points down and Uppers futures were marked down by 9 to 8 points.

The Alexandria cotton market was weak on heavy selling. Sakels futures declined 33 to 42 points and Ashmouni futures closed 33 to 21 points.

BULLS DISAPPOINTED.

Messrs. Ratil and Co. State that despite the cotton reports of much damage by weevils and even after taking into account the damage done by weevils, the crop has been estimated at the above figure. One of the main factors for this appears to be that the farmers should have intensely ploughed the small acreages allotted to them. The other factor is that weather was not as unfavourable as it was thought to be but on the contrary, looking at the past records, the condition of weather was more favourable than in the last 15 years, except in the last year.

After publication of the Bureau Report prices in the New York market declined to 8.15 cents for October delivery on liquidation. By disappointed bulls and uncovering of stop-loss orders, but thereafter prices began to improve in expectation that the loan will be soon announced and reacted to 8.35 cents for that delivery. Subsequently, however, as there has been delay on the part of U.S.A. Government in announcing the loan, the prices began to decline and have remained to-day as shown above.

It is said that the prices of American cotton to-day are below 52 per cent. of the parity price. The silence on the part of the U.S.A. Government about the loan inspite of this fact discourages the bulls.

Now that the crop is estimated to be big, the only redeeming factor for the bulls is the loan. One thing that required to be considered in this connection is whether after the announcement of the loan by the Government, further decline in prices will be checked. Reports that are being received from America indicate that although loan has been given on wheat, at present wheat is selling below the loan price. Why the same thing may not happen in respect of cotton is not inspite of there being loans on cotton last year and year before last, cotton was sold at much below loan levels.

The New York Stock Exchange also has again tended to develop weakness and this has had its adverse effect on cotton.

HEDGE SELLING.

Hedge selling against the crop that is moving continues to come in the market and this will continue to be so irrespective of the advance or decline in prices while the crop is moving, unless there are some terms in the loan to be announced that would attract the farmer.

Trailer Of Shape Of Things To Come

M.L.A.'s OUT TO JETTISON ARMY 'BLACK BILL'

Jinnah Party Attitude Causes Stir In Lobbies

(From Our Correspondent)

SIMLA, Aug. 16.

Considerable excitement is prevalent to-day in the lobbies of the Assembly after Mr. Zafar Ali's speech disclosing the Muslim League Party's decision to support the motion for the consideration of the Bill.

Urgent meetings of Party Executives are likely to be called this evening to decide the course of action. It is not likely that voting on the motion will take place to-day, as Party leaders have yet to speak.

A growing section of Congress Members holds the view that if the circulation motion is defeated, the Congress Party should ab-

A group of women 'medicos' of the Bombay University who received their M.B.B.S. degrees at the convocation held on Tuesday evening.

Maulana Zafarali, in a powerful speech, gave some indication of the Muslim League Party's attitude.

He was preceded by Mr. N. V. Gadgil, who concluded his speech, which began yesterday and Mr. A. C. Datta.

Mr. Gadgil quoted authoritative opinions in favour of the principle that the fulfilment of the highest civil obligation under modern conditions consisted in following the example set by Mr. MacDonald in 1914.

"Our considered opinion," declared Mr. Gadgil, "is that any war in which the British Empire might be involved is bound to be an unjust war, not undertaken for the defence of Indian frontiers and it would be our fundamental right of citizenship to persuade people not to join such a war."

What was the intention of Bill, he asked. If it was to secure normal recruitment to the present army, there was no need for the measure. Nothing had happened during the last eighteen months to show that recruitment had been in the least affected.

He quoted figures, which he claimed, showed that in the Punjab, where the Bill was to be applied at once, the actual strength of the regiments was more than the sanctioned strength. It might be pointed out that further recruitment might be affected, but he declared if it was necessary for the defence of India's borders, Indians would not be found wanting in readiness to enlist.

The Bill he asserted was not a mere isolated attempt but closely related to what the British Government had been doing during the last 18 months, and what the Government of India had been doing in the shape of me-chanisation. The Bill he suspected was a trailer to more serious ones providing for more serious curtailment of civil liberties. His fears were confirmed by the appointment of an Additional Defence Secretary in the person of Mr. Williams, who was Government's draftsman.

OUTRAGEOUS PROVISION

Mr. Akhil Chandra Datta declared that the real question raised by the Bill was: Who is to determine whether India should take part in any war or not? The answer given in the Bill was that it shall not be India and that the principle of self-determination shall not apply to India. The denial of this principle was something new and unprecedented. It was not correct to call the Bill an Amending Bill. It did not amend the Criminal Law, as it professed to do. The Indian Penal Code was enacted soon after the great mutiny and might even be said to have been in the process of enactment during the mutiny. Yet it contained no such outrageous provision as in the present Bill. The author of the Indian Penal Code was the great Macaulay and after three-quarters of a century they had another Macaulay in the person of Mr. Ogilvie. (Laughter.)

Without any legislation of the kind proposed by the Bill India gave her men and money in plenty in 1914. What had happened since then to make it necessary for Government to secure compulsory co-operation? He thought the explanation was that promises made during the war and later were broken which had changed the country so much that Government no longer felt the self-confidence or certainty that co-operation would come spontaneously.

WAR ON CONGRESS
Mr. Datta quoted the resolution (Continued on Page 8, Col. 1).

80 Injured In Rajkot Lathi Charge

Meetings Dispersed:
7 Arrested; Many Houses Searched

RAJKOT, August 16.
The Rajkumar College Maidan and the Sangadva Chowk were the scenes of lathi charges last night by the police as a result of which about 80 people were injured, though most of them slightly.

A meeting and demonstrations were held at the college maidan despite warning by the authorities. The Additional District Magistrate, the Deputy Inspector-General of Police, Western India States with a posse of lathi police arrived at the meeting place and later made a lathi charge on the crowd resulting in injuries to 30 of whom one had to be taken to hospital.

The crowd numbering about 10,000 then marched to Sangadva Chowk with the intention of holding a meeting there. When one of the speakers stood up the Magistrate declared the meeting illegal.

Another lathi charge was made by Rajkot State police resulting in injuries to 50 people. A police force was kept in the Chowk till midnight. Earlier seven arrests were made and a number of houses searched.—A.P.

Rajkot People's Protest: Hartal In City

(From A Correspondent).

RAJKOT, Aug. 16.

Authorities have launched a campaign to suppress criticism against State administration, and anti-gambling movement. A public meeting convened to take place last night in Agency limits was dispersed. A lathi-charge was made on the public without any warning. Afterwards Mr. S. T. John, Additional District Magistrate and Dy. Inspector-General Police Agency, who were present pleaded their ignorance of the orders for the lathi-charge and promised departmental action against the constables who had lathi-charged.

It is alleged the mounted police also assaulted peaceful crowds.

The same meeting was transferred to Sangadva Chok, in State limits. About 10,000 assembled. Here also, it is alleged, people were beaten with lathis and were chased. People sitting in hotels were assaulted and damage done to hotel goods. About six times people were lathi-charged without any warning. Police patrolled the whole night on Lakhajiraj Road.

Messrs. Vrajil Shukla, Dhebar Bechar, Vala Jatashanker, Mehta Valji, Nathwani Champaklal Vora, Lavanprasad and two others were arrested under sections 107 and 108 I.P.C.

House searches were made at four places and Tahmatnama booklets taken away. About 300 have been more or less injured, out of which six are in precarious condition in hospital.

Complete hartal is being observed in the city.

A public meeting to be held in State limits to-night is announced.

The Anti-Gambling Committee has issued the following public appeal to the Rajkot public:—

"In the present circumstances when public leaders have been arrested and are alleged to have been beaten and hundreds of people lathi-charged, it does not behove the Rajkot people to celebrate Janmashtami fairs in any way, so the Committee with all the emphasis at its command, exhorts people and shopkeepers not to take part in any functions of fairs, as a token of public mourning.

"Shop-keepers may not conduct their business. People may not attend the fair. Gambling must be thoroughly prohibited.
